PRESIDENT BEARS NEW OPERATION

Wound Was Not Healing Quite So Fast as Hoped For.

INCISION AVERTS SECOND ABSCESS

Work of The Knife Successful and Quick Recovery Now Is Expected.

PRESIDENT JOKES DURING THE ORDEAL

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Sept. 28.

A Washington special to the Herald says:

To accelerate recovery, and as a matter of necessary precaution, a second and successful operation was performed on the injured leg of President Roosevelt this afternoon at the temporary White House. This was done only after the president's physicians had called in consultation Dr. Newton Shaffer, a noted bone specialist of New York, and when it was found that the president's progress toward recovery following the first operation was not so satisfactory as his physicians had hoped for.

Secretary Cortelyou, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, issued the following statement:

"Dr. Newton M. Shaffer of New York joined the president's physicians in consultation this morning at 10 o'clock. The increase in local symptoms and a rise in temperature rendered it necessary to make an incision into the small cavity exposing the bone, which was found to be slightly affected. Thorough drainage is now established and the physicians feel confident that recovery will be uninterrupted. The operation was performed by Surgeon General Rixey, assisted by Dr. Lung, and in consultation with Surgeon General O'Reilly and Drs. Shaffer, Urie and Stitt."

Joked During the Operation.

The president was at all times conscious and stood the operation cheerfully and well. Cocaine was administered to the wound to deaden the pain and during the operation the president was continually chatting and joking with the surgeons. Immediately afterward he picked up his eyeglasses and book, was assisted to the library and resumed his reading. Mrs. Roosevelt, who had been at church as usual in the morning, returned to the president's room shortly after noon and sat by him while the operation was performed.

Late this evening the president's physicians announced that his condition was satisfactory, and although it was too early to say just what the result of the second operation would be, it was confidently believed by all who attended that more rapid progress would now be made toward complete recovery.

Dr. Shaffer will remain in the city tonight and probably through tomorrow. In any event, he will not leave Washington until the results of today's operation have developed and are fully known to the attending physicians.

The Doctors Present.

The physicians in the consultation at which today's operation was decided upon were Dr. Newton Shaffer, a noted orthopedic surgeon of New York and a former physician in the Roosevelt family; Surgeon General Rixey of the navy; Surgeon General O'Reilly of the army, and Drs. Lung, Urie and Stitt, also of the navy. The incision was made by Dr. Rixey, who was assisted by Dr. Lung.

As the preparations for the incision were being made the president looked up to the doctors and said: "Well, well, this makes quite a wardle."

Further signs of abscess were found and all were removed. It was also found that the bone was slightly affected as a result of the failure of the wound to heal with normal rapidity. After an antiseptic treatment, cleansing and complete draining, the wound was closed and bound again. The president suffered little pain during the operation and at once resumed his reading in the library.

While lying on the operating table in St. Vincent's hospital at Indianapolis the president convulsed those near him by facetiously commenting upon the extreme cautionsness and seriousness of his attendants. In preparing the wound for the operation decided upon, it was necessary to wash the leg and foot repeatedly in an antiseptic solution. The limb must have been bathed at least a dozen times before the operation was performed. When the cleansing process was finally completed the president caused a temporary suspension of the serious business at hand by exclaiming:

"What beautiful headlines this scene would make for some sensational newspaper: 'Washed at last.'"

This little touch of Roosevelt gaiety lifted the curtain of gloom.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Sept. 28.—Indianapolis physicians and surgeons who participated in the operation performed on the president at St. Vincent's hospital last Tuesday, declared that this had been feared. All united, however, in saying there is no danger to the president in such an operation.

MESSAGES TO MANILA BY CABLE IN JULY

That Is Promise Made by Commercial Company—Three Ships to Do Work.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Vice President George G. Ward, of the Commercial Cable company, who arrived today on the steamship Celtic, says the United States will be able to open up cable communication with Manila, P. I., by July 4, 1903. Mr. Ward says the cable is being made in London at the rate of 50 miles a day, and will be finished in March.

"Three ships will lay the cable," said Mr. Ward, "the Silverton, Colonia and Anglia. Two of them will begin from Manila and one from San Francisco. When they meet in mid-ocean the ends will be spliced. Already one of the ships has started for the Philippine islands by way of the Suez canal. The ship to lay the San Francisco end of the cable will go from London through the straits of Magellan and then up the Pacific coast."

DEATH AT STAKE IS PENALTY PAID BY YOUNG NEGRO

Confesses to Two Murders and Assault, Not Suspected Of.

VICTIM GRANTED ONE DAY RESPITE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Corinth, Miss., Sept. 28.—Writhing in the flames of burning fagots, piled high by hundreds of citizens, Tom Clark, alias Will Gibson, a young negro, was burned at the stake here today, after having confessed to one of the most atrocious crimes in the history of north Mississippi, the assault and murder of Mrs. Carey Whitfield on August 19 last.

Before the torch was applied Clark stated that he deserved his fate.

Last August Mrs. Whitfield, the wife of a well-known citizen, was found dead in her home. Investigation showed that she had been assaulted and her head was practically severed from her body.

Corinth and the surrounding country were scoured in an effort to apprehend the murderer, but diligent search failed to disclose his identity. Two detectives from Chicago were employed, but their efforts were fruitless. Several suspects were arrested, but in each case an alibi was proven.

Wife Causes His Arrest.

A committee of 12 citizens was named to continue the search. It became known last Monday that Tom Clark, a negro living near here, had had trouble with his wife and the latter threatened to disclose the secret of a crime. Officers apprehended the woman and she told enough to warrant the belief that Clark had killed Mrs. Whitfield.

Clark was arrested and yesterday was brought before the committee of 12 in Corinth. The negro finally confessed to the murder and also told of other crimes he had committed. He said that several years ago he killed two men on an excursion train in Mississippi. He told of an assault perpetrated by himself upon a negro woman and also of the theft of $1,500 from a physician at French Camp, Miss. Clark said he had never been suspected of committing any of these crimes.

After hearing the confession the committee decided that the negro should be hanged from a telegraph pole in the street. Clark said he deserved death, but asked that the action be delayed until today, so that he could have a farewell interview with his mother and brother, who live in Memphis. The request was granted and the two relatives were telegraphed for, but it was learned that they were in Mississippi.

Crowds to See Execution.

Meanwhile the news of the negro's arrest and confession spread rapidly over the surrounding country, and today's incoming trains brought hundreds of people into the city to witness the execution.

The crowds became so great that at midday the main street of the town was ordered cleared, and the announcement was made that it had been decided to burn Clark at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. This statement caused much excitement and surging crowds of people began to gather about the place selected for the enactment of the terrible tragedy.

At 2 o'clock pine fagots and larger pieces of wood were carefully laid about an iron rod, which was driven deep into the ground, and half an hour later it was announced that all was in readiness.

At 3 o'clock the prisoner, heavily manacled, was taken from the jail by a posse of armed men and was led to the east gate of the negro cemetery, which is situated in the western part of the city. Fagots and wood had been piled high around the stake and the negro was securely fastened to the iron rod.

Says His Fate Is Deserved.

Clark was asked if he cared to make a statement. He again said that he deserved his fate.

DEATH FOLLOWS IN THE WAKE OF CHRISTENINGS

Slighting Remarks About Infants Enraged the Parents.

ONE VICTIM DEAD; ANOTHER MAY DIE

Slighting remarks made about the infants at two Hungarian christenings yesterday resulted in the death of one man and the serious injury of another. John Bonsachick of No. 840 Windom street became enraged at Peter Mahalo, his infant's godfather, and stabbed him in the left arm, severing two arteries, and he died soon afterward at the South Side hospital. The father and four other Hungarians are under arrest at No. 7 police station. Mahalo's body was removed to the morgue. The fight took place at Bonsachick's home at 8:30 o'clock.

The christening of little John Bonsachick, 10 months old, was attended by many of its parents' friends yesterday afternoon. Peter Mahalo had stood as the godfather for the infant and his wife as his godmother. After the services at the church the family assembled at Bonsachick's house, where wine and liquor were served in abundance.

Peter Mahalo said the child would never be as good a man as its godfather and a general fight resulted between the father and Mahalo. Bonsachick's friends, Joseph Boteck, M. Cobach and John Bodzo, all of Windom street, joined in the fight. Bonsachick secured a knife and wounded Mahalo in the left arm. After he plunged the knife in the arm he gave it a twist and severed two arteries.

The wound bled profusely and the police were notified. The wounded man was taken to the South Side hospital in No. 7 police patrol wagon. Every effort was made to save his life, but he died shortly after he was admitted to the hospital.

Inspector William McShane ordered the arrest of all the participants and Joseph Boteck, Steven Boteck, M. Cobach and John Bodzo were taken to No. 7 police station. The dead man was taken to the morgue. The infant and its mother escaped injury during the trouble. John Bonsachick is 28 years old and Mahalo was 33. Both men were employed as laborers.

At a similar event held in Braddock yesterday Mike Kater had his head split open with a beer bottle. Mike was one of the guests at the christening and took occasion to state as his opinion that the infant, in whose honor the affair was being held, was neither beautiful nor good-natured. The enraged father, Joseph Slovinska, took umbrage at Mike's words and swung on him with a beer bottle. Mike's injury consists of a deep scalp wound and concussion of the brain. He may live.

WHITE HOUSE THINGS BURNED.

Furniture and Other Goods Lost in an Upholstering Shop.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 28.—(Special.)—As the result of a fire in the upholstering establishment of A. B. Kennedy this morning, $5,000 worth of furniture belonging to the White House went up in smoke. Thirty pieces of furniture, many fine curtains and portieres and several plate mirrors were either totally destroyed or damaged so that they will never again be fit for use. The articles had been sent to the upholstering shop for repair and renovation.

The more valuable furnishings of the White House, including the rare old portraits of Washington and his wife, Jefferson and Lincoln, were stored in a fireproof warehouse.

Swift Assumes Control.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—What was to have been an important move in the formation of the alleged beef trust took place yesterday when Swift & Co. notified the Anglo-American Packing Company that it would assume control of the Kansas City and Chicago plants on Monday.

CAVALRY SENT TO REINFORCE MEN ON DUTY

Sheridan Troop of Tyrone Ordered To Report at Olyphant.

INFANTRY UNABLE TO COVER FIELD

No Fresh Outbreaks, But Horsemen Needed for Rapid Movements.

FORGERY CHARGED BY SHERIFF KNORR

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 28.—The Sheridan troop of Tyrone was today added to the state military force on duty in the coal strike territory. The troop was ordered to reinforce the Thirteenth regiment, which has been encamped at Olyphant since Tuesday, at the request of Col. Watres.

Gen. Gobin called up Adjt. Gen. Stewart by telephone at noon and asked that a troop of cavalry be sent immediately to the relief of the Thirteenth regiment. Gen. Stewart took up the matter with Gov. Stone, who decided to order out the Sheridan troop, after consultation by 'phone with Maj.-Gen. Miller at Franklin.

The troop left Tyrone this afternoon on a special train for Olyphant via Lock Haven and Wilkesbarre. The camp equipage was shipped from the state arsenal in this city in a special car, which was attached to the train at Sunbury. The Governor's troop of Harrisburg and the Second Philadelphia city troop, which have been in the field some time, will remain in Schuylkill county.

All Cavalry on Duty.

All the cavalry troops of the guard are now on duty, except the First Philadelphia city troop, which will be rushed into the strike territory at the first sign of a serious outbreak.

The governor's advices from the region tonight are that there is no change in the situation and no prospects of an early settlement of the strike.

Gov. Stone called up Gen. Gobin by telephone tonight and advised him that he had received a telegram from Shenandoah advising him that the call for troops to Columbia county was a forgery.

Gen. Gobin replied that the sheriff's call for soldiers was authentic and that Knorr had sent his depty to him for troops.

SHENANDOAH, PA., Sept. 28.—Col. Watres, who is in command of the troops stationed in Lackawanna county, asked Gen. Gobin today for cavalry and the Sheridan troop of Tyrone has been ordered out by the governor. The cavalry left Tyrone this evening and are expected to report to Col. Watres early tomorrow morning. The general says the ordering out of the troops is not the result of any fresh outbreaks. He says the collieries at which trouble has been taking place are far apart and that the cavalrymen can get over the ground more readily than infantry.

Knorr Denies Telegram.

Sheriff Knorr of Columbia county says he did not sign nor authorize his name to be signed to the telegram which was sent to Gov. Stone asking that troops be sent to Centralia.

The following telegram was sent to the governor tonight:

"Shenandoah, Pa., Sept. 28.

"To William A. Stone, Governor, Harrisburg, Pa.:

"Sheriff Knorr says call for troops for Columbia county is a forgery. Gen. Gobin says he will send troops to Centralia to make arrests. Action certain to cause complications and injustice. We guarantee peaceful surrender of all accused persons to civil authorities. Telegrams to sheriff and the general will show truth of these statements.

SCRANTON, PA., Sept. 28.—By working his troops 18 hours a day, regardless of the rain and awful condition of the roads, Col. Watres of the Thirteenth has succeeded in restoring order throughout the whole county.

Trouble Mostly Trivial.

Sporadic outbreaks of a comparatively trivial nature have occurred during the past two days, but the usual attacks on non-union men and company's property have been wanting.

So arduous have been the tasks of the soldiers that many of them collapsed on the long night marches and had to be carried into camp.

Late last night shots were fired by soldiers at supposed strikers for the first time since the troops went afield. At Grassy Island colliery, half a mile from the Thirteenth's camp, two soldiers from Company A were stationed in a patch of underbrush on outpost duty. A volley of stones descended all about them, and one of them struck Private Charles Edwards, knocking him down. There was a scurrying in the bushes 50 yards away and a moment later men were seen crossing the opening. The two soldiers opened fire and kept blazing away into a clump of woods into which the figures disappeared. Capt. Conrad of Company A and a relief detail came up, attracted by the firing, and for two hours scoured the country in a fruitless search for the stone throwers.

Constable Tries Out Soldiers.

At 12:30 this morning a shot was heard on a hillside near the camp and the searchlight, which Col. Watres had just gotten into working order, was turned in the direction. A man with a gun was descried rushing to the cover of the woods. The rays of the searchlight were kept upon him, and after a short chase a couple of soldiers from the outpost on the hill ran him down.

He proved to be "Mickey" Gaughan, high constable of Olyphant borough. The only explanation he vouchsafed to Col. Watres this morning was:

"I wanted to try out your soldiers and see if they were to be depended upon."

The colonel decided to let Judge Ed-

CONFESSION NOW EXPECTED FROM SAMUEL STANTON

Strange Tales Are Told About Laura Biggar and Dr. Hendrick.

OTHER PERSONS MAY BE ARRESTED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Sept. 28.

Lawyers and detectives who have been laying bare the alleged conspiracy to divert to Laura Biggar the Henry M. Bennett estate will not be surprised if the next sensational development in the case is a fully voluntary confession from Samuel Stanton, formerly justice of the peace.

Stanton, who is in jail in Freehold, N. J., has lost what little nerve he displayed after arrest last Friday and seems on the verge of physical collapse. From one of the lawyers retained by the heirs-at-law it was learned today that such a breakdown on the part of Stanton is precisely what they have expected.

"I think Stanton easily could have been persuaded to tell all he knows if by so doing he could have won any assurance of mercy from his prosecutors," said this lawyer. "Even without such assurance I think it not unlikely that a few more days in the Freehold jail will bring him to his knees as a willing state witness. It is by no means sure, however, that he would be permitted to act in that capacity. We regard our case as sufficiently strong to convict all the defendants without any such assistance."

Hendrick Has Money.

While Stanton appeared forlorn, deserted and utterly miserable all day today, Dr. Hendrick diverted himself with a copy of the life and achievements of Jerry McAuley of the Rescue mission. Dr. Hendrick apparently sees no immediate prospect of release on bail. Since he went to the Freehold jail he has appeared to be well supplied with funds, and has all his meals supplied from a neighboring restaurant.

One development of today points to a strange coincidence, if nothing more, in the Biggar-Bennett case. It has been discovered that on the very day the alleged infant born to Laura Biggar in the Bayonne sanitarium died, a baby boy, son of Dr. Charles C. Hendrick and Mrs. Hendrick, also died. It is not believed possible that the body of the Hendrick child could have been buried as that of Laura Biggar's, but there is talk now of a possible disinterment. There is evidence that, while both died on the same day, the Hendrick baby was buried from No. 816 Grand street, Jersey City, on August 13, and the interment of the alleged Biggar baby was in Asbury park on the day following.

Hendrick and Wife Separated.

Dr. Hendrick and his wife ceased to live together several months prior to the death of their child. Mrs. Hendrick was married to Dr. Hendrick when she was 17 years old, and she is now 25. Hendrick left her and went to live at his Bayonne sanitarium last April, about the time Laura Biggar took up her residence there.

When the Hendrick baby died, the mother of Mrs. Hendrick went to the sanitarium and told the doctor of the death of little Francis. She begged him to attend the infant's funeral from his wife's residence, but she says Hendrick refused to go. On the next day, however, he did attend the funeral of the child of whom the late Henry M. Bennett and Laura Biggar were represented to be the parents. The body of that infant, which was said to be only 15 days old, was sent under their orders to John F. Hawkins, executor of the Bennett estate, in Asbury Park, with the request that it be buried in the same grave with the body of the late millionaire. Mr. Hawkins peremptorily refused on the ground that he did not concede the child's parentage. The

SECOND FORCE BEGINS MARCH TO MORO FORT

This Time Engineers to Build Pontoon Bridge and Corduroy Road.

RAFT ATTACKS WILL BE MADE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Manila, Sept. 28.—A second expedition against the Moro position at Maciu, island of Mindanao, left Camp Vicars today. It is in command of Capt. John J. Pershing and is composed of a battalion of infantry, a troop of cavalry, three sections of artillery and a detachment of engineers.

The engineers will construct a pontoon bridge and a corduroy trail across the swamp which flanks the land side of the Maciu forts. This work will occupy several days. Rafts probably will be used to attack the fort from the lake side. The actual date of the assault upon the forts is indefinite.

The sultan of Butig was made a prisoner by the column under Capt. Eli A. Helmick of the Tenth Infantry, which last week destroyed the Butig forts, but was subsequently released. He furnished the Americans with horses to transport their supplies.

The first expedition which left Camp Vicars to operate against the Maciu Moros was composed of a battalion of infantry, two troops of cavalry and two guns. It started September 17. The position at Maciu was found to be strong and the attack was delayed in order to improve the methods of approach and to receive reinforcements.

The fort at Maciu is on an elevation close to the lake shore and flanked by swamps which virtually make it an island. The sultan of Maciu regards his position as an impregnable one, and has refused to treat with Capt. Pershing.

HUFF'S NAME SAFE.

To Provide Against Possible Invalidation of Nomination, Will File Independent Papers.

GREENSBURG, Sept. 28.—(Special.)—George F. Huff, Republican nominee for congress in the Twenty-second district, has prepared separate nomination papers and they will be filed at Harrisburg before Tuesday midnight. This was determined yesterday, when it was learned that the Democrats of Westmoreland and Butler counties had decided to contest the nomination because of an alleged irregularity in the choosing of the nominee for the district on last Tuesday.

The Democrats say the conferees of Congressman Showalter of Butler came to Greensburg with instructions from the county committee entirely different from those approved by the Westmoreland county committee. They were told to meet three conferees from Westmoreland, but the rule adopted by the Republican committee of this county provided for eight conferees for Col. Huff to Showalter's three. The conference was set at such a late date that the Republican organization of neither county could be called together to approve the rule adopted by the other to allow the certificate to be filed at Harrisburg before midnight on Tuesday, and a compromise method of choosing the nominee was adopted.

In case Col. Huff's certificate is declared invalid, he will be compelled to run independently.

BROKE THROUGH TURKS.

Bulgarian Revolutionists Lose 52 Killed and 112 Wounded in Successful Attempt.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 28.—Official telegrams received here say that 300 Bulgarian revolutionists who were surrounded by Turkish troops at Vodena, in the vilayet of Salonica, and who succeeded in forcing the cordon after a sanguinary fight, lost 52 men killed and 112 men wounded.

The Turks also suffered severe losses. The pursuit of the Bulgarians continues.

ORDERS TO END THE STRIKE ARE EXPECTED SOON

Mysterious Stranger in Close Conference With Mitchell.

TRIED TO CONCEAL THEIR MEETINGS

Mine Workers' Executive Replies to President Baer's Statement.

SAYS READING MAN IS CLOUDING THE ISSUE

President John Mitchell and Secretary William B. Wilson of the Miners will both be at strike headquarters at Wilkesbarre today. Immediately afterward a call to the anthracite district presidents and executive boards, and possibly to the general executive board of the miners, is expected for a conference to plan an early ending of the strike.

During their stay here the general officers have been accompanied much of the time by a mysterious stranger, who kept in the background till yesterday, and was said in the Hotel Henry lobby to be an organizer for the miners living at Wilkesbarre. He is registered as John Smith, Wilkesbarre. He says that he is a manufacturer of tomato products at Vineland, N. J.; that he has no connection with the union and is not an emissary of the operators.

Many Mysterious Moves.

Both he and Mitchell made a half-dozen moves yesterday to convey the idea that they had no relations. Both said that it was a casual acquaintanceship, which sprang up at Wilkesbarre within ten days before both came here.

A report has reached business circles in Pittsburgh that Mitchell and Wilson are tired of the strike and desire to end it before the anthracite organization suffers distintegration. Mitchell has freely said that his business with Wilson was such as could not well be communicated through the mail, telegraph and long distance telephones, but at the same time he has said that the meeting here was simply for himself, as the leader in the field, and Wilson, as the executive at headquarters, to talk over affairs that have come up in the months they have been apart, and discuss further strike plans. Mitchell and Wilson are going to Wilkesbarre by the way of Philadelphia and may stop at the Quaker City.

Smith Remained Behind.

Smith, the mysterious stranger, did not go out on the train with the miners' executives. He came to Pittsburgh the night before the miners' leaders arrived.

Asked for his business card last night, Smith said that he had none with him; that he was not here on business, but to see some friends living in Allegheny. He had been here all day Saturday and Sunday, but did not see these friends, and asked yesterday where Allegheny is. He said he would look up his friends. Last night, after Smith and Mitchell had spent much of the day together, Mitchell and Wilson were coming out of the hotel cafe after dinner when Smith was sitting in the lobby.

The miners' leaders came to where Smith was sitting, stopped, and noticing a newspaper man at Smith's side, turned and went on without any sign of recognition.

Recalls Last Settlement.

Shortly afterwards Smith took the key to his room, which was on the sixth floor, went up the elevator, in which there was another newspaper man, and hesitated before he got off at the floor where John Mitchell occupied parlor B. Smith turned from the direction of Mitchell's room and waited till the newspaper man had dispatched his errand with Mitchell. Then Smith returned and had his final words with Mitchell before they separated.

The incident recalls the intermediary of the anthracite strike of 1900, when a former labor leader, using the name of Guernsey, kept those watchful for a settlement guessing for a long time. This man afterwards proved to be Daniel O'Keefe, president of the 'Longshoremen's union. It was hinted yesterday that the mysterious Mr. Smith had an official position in this same organization. In this case there is the important difference that those in touch with the situation declare Smith cannot possibly represent the operators; that they have nothing to offer in the way of compromise at this time.

May Mean Peace.

Mitchell was asked if the reported declaration of President George F. Baer of the Reading that he and all the officials of the company would resign if the company forced a settlement might be regarded as a weakening on the part of the control of the coal interests. Mitchell said that he only knew of that incident as he had read it in newspapers, but assented that the incident, if true, may indicate that the operators may be getting ready to compromise.

He declared again that there had been no conferences here with politicians or operators, which would have any effect on the strike.

A Pittsburgher who saw Smith at the hotel last night declared that he was certain that he had met him at Scranton during the last convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Young Saw Mitchell.

He was so sure of this that he accosted Smith and told him so, but the stranger insisted that he was John Smith of Vineland, N. J.

Rev. S. Edward Young, who met Mr. Mitchell in the strike fields, spent a half hour with him at the hotel yesterday evening. Rev. Mr. Young said the visit was simply because he likes Mitchell and believes in the cause of organized labor, and had no significance in connection with the strike. Mr. Young expressed his belief that the strike was no nearer a settlement than when he had been in the field. Asked if Mitchell seemed to be weakening, he said not, but John Mitchell is not the man to let his callers seize his thoughts.

President Mitchell gave out a statement in reply to President Baer's statement issued September 2. He says:

The recent utterances of Mr. Baer, spokesman of the anthracite coal trust, Mr. Hewitt and other interested persons disclose a well-defined purpose to confuse and cloud the real causes which resulted in the coal strike, and an attempt to divert attention from the actual issue involved; however misleading as are their utterances, it is a relief to know that they now admit that the public has rights and interests which cannot be ignored with impunity; and inasmuch as the public must be the final arbiter of the coal strike, it is imperative that it shall not be deceived by statements which are at variance with the facts.

It is not my intention to point out the innumerable instances in which Mr. Baer has erred in statement and allegation. His unsupported assertion that certain things are true cannot be accepted as final or conclusive, particularly in view of the fact that unquestioned authorities can be cited to prove him to be in error. Mr. Baer states "that the wages paid in the anthracite coal regions are, compared with the wages paid in like employment, fair and just." By "like employment" Mr. Baer must refer to bituminous coal mining.

Higher for Bituminous Mining.

I am willing and prepared to demonstrate that wages in the bituminous coal fields are from 20 to 40 per cent higher than those paid for similar classes of work in the anthracite fields. The fact is that the minimum wage received by any class of adult mine workers in the soft coal mines is 2¾ cents an hour, while the minimum wage paid to boys is 12½ cents an hour; in the anthracite coal mines men performing precisely the same labor receive from 13 to 20 cents an hour, while boys are paid as low as 5 cents an hour and rarely receive to exceed 8 cents. The bituminous miner works a maximum of eight hours a day, which is two hours less than men in the anthracite field are required to work; moreover, the anthracite mine worker labors under the further disadvantage of being more liable to be killed or injured, the casualties being 50 per cent greater in the anthracite than in the bituminous mines.

There are other statements of Mr. Baer which are equally incorrect; among these is his assertion that "the miners only worked from four to six hours a day," and his further assertion "that the lowest scale of wages was 85 cents for boy slate pickers." If Mr. Baer desires I shall gladly furnish him with the names and addresses of thousands of slate pickers, each of whom received much less than 85 cents a day, and I shall be willing to have the returns verified by the companies' own payrolls.

Output of the Mines.

The next misstatement of Mr. Baer to which I shall give notice is that which claims that "for some mysterious reason" the miners restricted the output of the mines. Mr. Baer claims "that in this manner the product of the collieries has been reduced about 12½ per cent, and that in the case of the Reading Company it amounted to more than 1,000,000 tons." This is vitally important, if true; but it is not true. The fact is that instead of a loss of 1,000,000 tons there was an increase in the year 1901 from the mines operated by the Reading Company of 838,243 tons; and a total increase from all the anthracite mines of 9,000,000 tons. (See report of Pennsylvania state bureau of mines). The output of coal in 1901 was far in excess of that of any year in the history of coal mining, and even a paper so avowedly and bitterly hostile to the mine workers' union as the Engineering and Mining Journal admits that "virtually the only restriction on output was a shortage of cars." "This shortage," the Journal continues, "soon became marked," and "by the end of November the Reading collieries and those of some other companies were mining on short time." (Issue of January 4, 1902). Although his statement does not admit of any such construction it is still possible that Mr. Baer refers to the per capita output; but even here he errs.

Since the very inception of this strike the aims, objects and ideals of the United Mine Workers of America have been wilfully distorted by a small army of critics. We have been unjustly maligned and our motives and purposes maliciously impugned.

Demands of Miners.

We therefore take the opportunity to repeat specifically that we do not seek to interfere with the management of the coal properties or with the proper discipline of the working force; but we demand,

First—An increase in wages for men employed on piece work; second, a reduction in the hours of labor for men employed by the day; third, payment for a legal ton of ton; fourth, that the coal we mine shall be honestly weighed and correctly recorded; and fifth, we favor incorporating in the form of an agreement the wages that shall be paid and the conditions of employment that shall obtain for a specified period. As to the reasonableness of these demands we have proposed to submit to and abide by the award of an impartial board of arbitration.

There could be no grosser perversion of truth than the assertion of the operators that the mine workers' union is a lawless organization. During the past 20 weeks the whole power of the union has been exerted to preserve the peace among a voluntarily idle population of 750,000, and it is a tribute to the activity of our officers and the loyalty and self-restraint of our members that we have been more successful in allaying violence than the coal and iron police in inciting it. Despite all our precautions we regret that occasional violence has resulted, but it would be as logical to censure one of the religious, social or political organizations, or even the United States government with being an unlawful organization because some of its adherents transgress the law as it is to charge the United Mine Workers of America with being an unlawful organization because some of its members violate the law.

Calling Out of Pumpmen.

Mr. Baer assumes that the pumpmen, engineers and firemen were called out so that "the mines would be destroyed, and with their destruction 140,000 men with their wives and children dependent upon their labors would be deprived of work for a long time." The truth is that the strike of the pumpmen, engineers and firemen was called in their own interest absolutely, and by their own request; it was for the purpose of removing grievances against which they alone complained and against which some of them had inaugurated an independent, although unsuccessful, strike more than one year ago.

The fact that several weeks elapsed between the strike of the miners and the independent strike of the pumpmen, engineers and firemen, and the further fact that the operators were given 12 days' official notice that the pumpmen, engineers and firemen would strike unless granted an eight-hour workday, should convince Mr. Baer that the strike of these men did not originate in any desire on the part of the mine workers to deprive themselves of the source of their own livelihood. If the mine workers had sought the destruction of the mining properties they would have ordered the strike of the steam men without giving the companies any notice at all.

Reverting to the demands of the miners for increased wages and improved environment, Mr. Baer claims that he cannot possibly pay an increase in wages that would amount to 10 or 15 cents a ton to the miners, but he and the allied presidents admit that they can afford to sacrifice, temporarily, a large market and lose millions of dollars rather than pay this increase; nevertheless, without advancing the miners' wages 1 cent, the operators did raise the market price last year from 30 to 50 cents a ton, and at the present time Mr. Baer and his fellow presidents are forcing the public to pay from $6 to $10 excess upon a ton of coal in order to save this same public 10 or 15 cents.

Small Grades of Coal.

Mr. Baer states that 40 per cent of the coal produced is sold in the market below the cost of mining; but he fails to say that the larger portion of this 40 per cent is made up of grades of coal for which the miners received no compensation whatever. Indeed, up to a few years ago, or before the installation of washeries, the miners were docked for loading this very coal which brings small prices now in the market; and according to Mr. Baer's process of reasoning the miners should receive less wages for the larger grades because they mine the small sizes gratuitously.

I shall not enter elaborately into the question of cost, but shall merely say that Mr. Baer's statements are utterly misleading. The rise in wages in 1900 was more than counterbalanced by an increase in the cost of living which left the miner worse off than before. Mr. Baer claims that this advance of 10 per cent which was paid the miners in 1900 cost the companies more than 10 cents a ton; but this is, at least, problematical. In March, 1902, the Engineering and Mining Journal (see issue of March 29) made a careful calculation in order "to show what effect the increase in wages last year had upon the cost of coal." As a result of this computation, based upon the figures of the Delaware & Hudson, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, the Engineering and Mining Journal, which cannot be accused of being either friendly or fair to us, states that "the conclusion to be drawn is that the resulting increase in cost was not large; in all probability not over 5 cents a ton at the outside."

Average Wages of Miners.

Mr. Baer claims that the average pay a working day in his mines is $1 89. Admitting, for the sake of argument, the correctness of his figures, this would make, upon the average number of working days in 1901, a grand annual total of $368 for each employe, or an average of $7 05 a week—the munificent sum of $1 01 a day.

In closing this statement I desire to say that we have entered and are conducting this struggle without malice and without bitterness; we believe that our antagonists are acting upon misrepresentation rather than in bad faith; we regard them not as enemies but as opponents, and we strike in patience until they shall accede to our demands or submit to impartial arbitration the differences between us. We are striking not to show our strength, but the justice of our cause, and we desire only the privilege of presenting our case to a fair tribunal. We ask not for favors, but for justice, and we appeal our case to the solemn judgment of the American people.

TO HOLD CONFERENCE.

Anthracite District Officers Await Mitchell and Wilson in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Thomas B. Nicholls, Thomas Duffy and John Fahy, presidents of the three anthracite districts of the United Mine Workers, arrived at the Windsor hotel here about midnight from the coal region. After registering they left the hotel and up to 1:30 had not returned.

The object of the visit to Philadelphia is not known, but as President Mitchell and National Secretary-Treasurer Wilson left Pittsburgh last night for this city the inference is that a conference of mine strike leaders will be held here probably today. Mitchell and Wilson will not reach here until 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning.

body was buried elsewhere on August 16.

It was learned today that Dr. Hendrick has been under arrest at least once before. On complaint of one of his relatives, an employe of the Lackawanna railroad, who professed to be scandalized by the character of the relations maintained with Miss Biggar at the Bayonne sanitarium, both Dr. Hendrick and the actress were taken in custody, and the charge then made still stands on the statute books of New Jersey as misdemeanor. The complaint was adjusted out of court.

Counsel for the heirs-at-law have hinted that there may be other arrests. They profess to know the man who has financed the entire conspiracy in the hope of reaping some of its profits, and also the man who acted as a go-between in the effort to obtain the service of a complacent justice of the peace. The latter is an officeholder in Hudson county, but no steps have been taken toward his prosecution, and the lawyers intimate that they have no actual legal evidence against him to warrant such steps.

Of the alleged financial backer of the conspiracy, one of the lawyers said tonight that he is a politician whose name is well known throughout New Jersey.

Laura Biggar has not yet been arrested. Samuel I. Frankenstein, her counsel, said tonight:

"I have not seen Miss Biggar since Friday evening, but she is still in Manhattan, and I expect to see her again tomorrow morning. She has been anxious to surrender herself ever since the warrant for her arrest was issued, but I have dissuaded her from doing so, because of the discomforts to which she would be subjected in a New Jersey jail. Under the Jersey law a bondsman must be a freeholder, and I have found it somewhat difficult to obtain for her competent bail. Tomorrow I shall resume my efforts to do so, and as soon as a bondsman is found Miss Biggar will surrender herself."

Mr. Burt Haverly of No. 217 West Thirty-eighth street has written to the Herald an explicit denial of the published statements that Laura Biggar was at one time his wife.

WILMINGTON, DEL., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—It is rumored that Laura Biggar was in this city late last night, but efforts to find her have been unavailing. A man who knows her informed the police that he had spoken to her on the street. She lived here with her parents for many years.

NORWAY'S PEARY HOME.

Welcomed With Great Demonstration as His Ship, the Fram, Sailed Into Christiania Harbor.

CHRISTIANIA, NORWAY, Sept. 28.—Escorted by warships and numerous pleasure steamers, Capt. Sverdrup's arctic expedition on the Fram entered Christiania harbor today. The Fram was saluted by the fort and welcomed by thousands of spectators.

Sir Clements Robert Markham, president of the Royal Geographical society of Great Britain, who is now here, regards Capt. Sverdrup's expedition as the most important since the Franklin arctic expedition.

King Oscar, Emperor William and King Victor Emmanuel have telegraphed words of welcome to Capt. Sverdrup.

The Fram returned to Stavanger, Norway, September 19, after more than four years in the arctic regions.

STORM-STRICKEN SICILY.

Another Tempest Breaks Over the Island—One Family Drowned in Their Beds.

SYRACUSE, SICILY, Sept. 28.—A fresh storm burst over the district of Santa Maria today and many houses were destroyed. The stormy weather continues throughout Sicily.

It is now believed 200 persons perished at Modeca during the tornado. In one instance a family of 10 persons were drowned in bed. The village of Gartoni has been partly destroyed and 43 persons were drowned. The water rose in the church to a height of 12 feet. Many children lost their lives.

There have been some disgraceful scenes of pillage from the ruins and from bodies. The total damage as the result of the cyclone is expected to amount of over $2,500,000.

STEER INVADES DINING-ROOM OF AN EAST END RESTAURANT.

"Beef on the hoof" is not often served to patrons of Pittsburgh restaurants, but the customers of Miller's eating house on Frankstown avenue had it yesterday, together with a melange of "scrambled" eggs, broken china, tin, silverware, furniture and table linen.

The restaurant is at No. 68 Frankstown avenue, and Lowenstein Bros. have a meat emporium at No. 74. In the rear is a pen, in which there is betimes a steer, ready for the butchering. Yesterday afternoon a well-developed Texan gentleman was gazing sad-eyed through the bars of this pen, while in Miller's a number of customers were enjoying a late Sunday dinner.

Whether Teddy, the steer, had some stimulant to undue activity, or was merely tired of his confinement and the prospect of being drawn and quartered, has not been ascertained, but with a wild leap he cleared the top rail of the pen and dashed into the restaurant. He passed through the kitchen, while the cook subsided in a shower of flying kettles and pots, picked up a basket of fresh eggs with the off hind hoof, and galloping into the dining room began juggling eggs, dishes, tables, chairs and everything else movable about the establishment.

The unappreciative audience, in which were several women, gave a howl of dismay and stampeded through the front door, while the cashier fainted at the register.

The excitement interrupted the juggling performance and angered Teddy, who made frantic efforts to kick the sides out of the building, then thrust his head through the front door and gazed sadly up and down Frankstown avenue at the vanishing audience, many of whom were flying napkins as flags of truce as they sped for telegraph poles and other places of safety.

After Teddy had sampled all the pies and made a football of the coffee steamer, he grew tired and wandered out into the kitchen where the cook revived, only to see a "horned devil" doing a cakewalk on the big range.

By this time all the reserves at No. 6 police station had been called out and the neighboring fire companies notified. The city employes, together with stable boys and the employes of Lowenstein Bros., finally induced Teddy to re-enter his pen by roping him so he could not protest.

The napkined diners returned and Miller's employes had partially removed the wreckage when Teddy once more leaped the bars and charged the restaurant. This time the back door was locked but the thundering of hoofs against it created a second panic inside. Finding no way to get in, Teddy directed his energies to kicking down his temporary home in the rear of the butcher shop.

After this amusement had grown old he consented to be roped and was anchored fore and aft to solid posts, where he remained until this morning when supposedly he paid the price of evil doing. Teddy was certainly a healthy young steer and the patrons of Miller's should rejoice at the opportunity of getting him roasted or broiled. It is understood that he was big enough to pay for the damage to the restaurant by the meat on his bones.

LABOR LEAGUE IS NOW IN POLITICS

PRESIDENT WAS ASKED TO RESIGN AND DID SO.

Citizens Nominee Was Only Candidate Indorsed—Machine Manipulation in Evidence.

The United Labor league last night made a jump about half away across the fence as to its political affiliations. The league ousted its president, William Boate, and elected John Fernau, district master workman of the Knights of Labor, in his stead.

A movement was renewed to create a labor party, and the league voted to have committees confer with the rival central organizations of labor, the Iron City council of the American Federation of Labor and the Building Trades council, to act on a plan looking to this end.

A resolution presented by W. J. Burke, who represents the conductors in the league, and is a supporter of the Ballot Reform ticket, to indorse that ticket, failed to pass.

The league voted an unanimous indorsement on the candidacy of Samuel L. Mawhinney, the Citizens ticket nominee for legislature in the Third district. The resolution embodying this action declared against support of other candidates.

The session of the league was noisy and was pregnant with much ill-feeling among delegates. The meeting was not a large one, many of the delegates remaining away from knowledge of the character of the business that was proposed to transact. The resolution asking President Boate to resign was voted on by only 50 delegates, 15 being the minority vote.

All of the conflict arose from failure of a league committee to have placed on the Citizens ticket George J. Churchill and William T. Hamilton as legislative candidates.

This resolution stated that "there is great dissatisfaction with the conduct of the president of this league," and went on to call for his resignation, which action, if denied, was to be followed by declaring his office vacant. Boate afterwards put out this statement:

"The action taken by the league can be proven conclusively to be for the purpose of furthering the aims and objects of the ballot reform party. After the action was taken deposing me Churchill made an explanation as to why he was not nominated on the Citizens ticket. He read a letter which he said came from a Citizens leader explaining that the reason he and Hamilton were not nominated was that Democrats could not be put on the ticket in their districts, the Third and Fourth, the districts having shown heavy Republican majorities. I was deposed for not having these people nominated.

"W. J. Burke, without waiting for the regular order of business, presented a resolution, the intent of which was to pull the league into an indorsement of the ring Republican candidates for the state senate and legislature. The resolution was not indorsed."

wards of Lackawanna county deal with his case.

Civil and Military Conference.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Sept. 28.—The military authorities, Sheriff Jacobs and some of the superintendents of the companies in this vicinity held a long meeting in the office of one of the coal companies last evening and talked over a plan by which the troops can be moved promptly to scenes of disturbances.

It is not the purpose of the military to do police duty, but if any of the companies can get men to go to work the soldiers will give them protection.

The Ninth regiment went into camp at West Side park this afternoon in the midst of a drenching rainstorm.

James Sweeney, a deputy employed at the Bliss mine of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Company at West Nanticoke, was on his way home this evening when he met some strikers. An altercation ensued, when Sweeney pulled a revolver and fired at Joseph Gillis, a Slav. The bullet entered his back and the man was removed to his home in a precarious condition. Sweeney was locked up. He says the strikers threatened his life and he shot in self-defense.

SOLIDIFYING THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

THAT IS THE EFFECT OF THIS CAMPAIGN.

Protection, Prosperity and Pennypacker the War Cry in Speakers' Wake.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Sept. 28.—The splendid demonstration which last night marked the reception to the Republican candidate for governor, Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker and the eloquent attorney general, John P. Elkin, who has shown the way for all loyal Republicans to follow, has imbued the Republican leaders of Cambria county with absolute confidence in a substantial Republican majority for the entire ticket next November.

The splendid example set by the attorney general has dissipated the shadow of disaffection which the Pattison boomers have attempted to cast among the stalwart friends of Mr. Elkin, and there is now little, if any, doubt that the Republicans will present an unbroken front to the enemy and help to lay Pattison's broken boom in the Democratic cemetery beside the silver coffin of the very late William Jolted Bryan. In other words, the Republicans of Cambria county have got together and will vote solidly for protection, prosperity and Pennypacker.

County Chairman Leech, Congressman Evans and all the Republican leaders are highly pleased with the way things are going, and the county chairman confidently announces that Cambria county will give a substantial Republican majority. He says also that Pattison's visit to the county was a frost, and that its only effect has been to weaken the Democratic candidate's strength in the county.

Judge Pennypacker also is greatly pleased, not only with his splendid reception here, but in Beaver Falls, Sharon and Butler, where he addressed great meetings on Thursday and Friday. In fact, the judge is much gratified by the cordial welcomes extended to him everywhere he has been, and by the favorable reports of Republican activity and harmony given to him by the various county organizations.

The gubernatorial party spent the day here. In the morning Judge Pennypacker and Gen. Latta were shown the points of interest by Joseph E. Morgan, chief engineer of the Cambria steel works, and were entertained at Westmont by C. S. Price, general manager of the Cambria company.

This evening the party left for Huntingdon, and tomorrow there will be a reception at Bedford in the afternoon and a meeting at Everett in the evening, which will be addressed by Attorney General Elkin, who will join the party at Bedford.

Mr. Elkin had to return to Indiana this morning to attend to some private business. Before leaving he had a pleasant chat with Judge Pennypacker, who was greatly pleased with the eloquent speech of his erstwhile opponent, who is now giving vigorous support to the judge's candidacy.

On Tuesday night there will be a meeting at Huntingdon, where Charles Emory Smith and Attorney General Elkin will speak, and on Wednesday Senator Penrose will join the party and will address meetings at Montoursville and Williamsport.

LAST DRINK ON EARTH.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 28.—(Special.)—Oscar Stokes, a colored man, started after his white wife with a butcher knife while the family was sitting at supper tonight. He was disarmed by his brother, and then, securing another weapon, attacked Alva Rivers, a white man, his brother-in-law. Rivers stepped back and, drawing a revolver, shot Stokes in the left breast.

Stokes staggered into a side room and drank a pint of whisky, remarking that he might as well have a drunk before he died. He was taken to the hospital, and is in a serious condition. Rivers is still at large.

1,500 CAR MEN STRIKE.

New Orleans Trolley Service Completely Tied Up—Effort for a Compromise.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—Fifteen hundred employes of the New Orleans Street Railway Company struck this morning on the refusal of the company to grant their demand for higher wages and shorter hours, and not a street car was operated in this city today.

The company advertised for 900 men and asked the mayor for two policemen for each car, but later withdrew the advertisement, and an effort was made to induce the men to return to work and submit the differences to arbitration. The men are considering the matter, but at midnight there was no prospect of peace.

Jay Cooke Improving.

PUT-IN-BAY, O., Sept. 28.—There is a decided improvement in the condition of Banker Jay Cooke of Philadelphia tonight. He had a good sleep last night and has passed a quiet and comfortable day. The physicians feel that there is now some hope for his recovery.

FIVE VICTIMS OF EXPLOSION ARE NOW DEAD

Duquesne Furnace Horror of Saturday Adds to Its Grim Record.

OTHER THREE SAID TO BE DYING

Body of Daniel P. McGinley, Alleged to Have Committed Suicide, Found in River—Other Lives Suddenly Ended.

Of the eight men injured Saturday evening by the blowing off of a furnace top at the Duquesne plant of the Carnegie blast furnaces five are now dead. Three additional men died at the McKeesport hospital yesterday. John Lisko, 28 years old, of Duquesne, was one of the first to die on Saturday evening. He was followed early yesterday morning by Steve Shultz, 38 years old. Since these two died three more have expired. John Adams, 37 years old, dying early yesterday morning; George Gasparik, just before noon, and John Freshko yesterday afternoon.

Adams was a young fellow about 19 years of age and resided with his parents in Duquesne. Gasparik and Freshko were both married, Gasparik being 19 years of age and Freshko 32 years old. All the men resided in Duquesne, where their bodies were taken to be prepared for burial.

The men suffered intense pain, although the hospital physicians did all in their power to relieve the suffering. The other three men injured, Mike Misako, 28 years old; Frank Nistor, 38 years and, and Mike Floskey, 26 years old, were all reported to be in a serious condition last night and it is doubtful if they will recover. There was general mourning in Duquesne yesterday for those who have died.

An Alleged Suicide.

The remains of Daniel P. McGinley, 35 years old, who is alleged to have committed suicide by drowning himself Monday was found yesterday morning in the Allegheny river just below the Seventh street bridge. McGinley lived at the Jordan bath house float and was an expert swimmer. It is alleged that he had been despondent for some time on account of ill health and deliberately threw himself in the Allegheny river. His friends made a report of his disappearance to the police, but no trace of him was obtained until his body was found.

While sleeping on the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at the Allegheny street crossing, an unknown white man was run over by engine No. 72, and his head was severed from his body. There was nothing found on his person to identify him. He was found by Joseph Green, an employe of the railroad. The man had been drinking and it is supposed that he became tired and lay on the tracks to sleep. He rested his head on one of the rails and the engine severed it from his body. There was a bottle of whisky found in his coat pocket.

Died in the Jail.

Michael Pardine, 48 years old, who lived in Allegheny, died in the jail early yesterday morning of heart disease. He had been committed there on Saturday by Police Magistrate D. J. McGarey for five days, on a charge of drunkenness. He was taken ill after he was admitted and died in spite of the attention that was given him. Pardine said that he had been troubled with heart disease for some time.

Lobrott Jongrilli of No. 716 River avenue, 20 months old, died suddenly yesterday morning without medical attention. The infant was in perfect health when its parents put it to bed on Saturday night. When they got up yesterday morning the child was dead. Coroner Jesse M. McGeary will make an investigation of the case today.

William H. Roberts, four months old, of No. 5709 Parker street, died in bed during Saturday night, while the mother slept by its side. The infant was apparently free from any ailments when placed in bed. When Mrs. Roberts awakened yesterday morning at 7 o'clock the child was dead.

ALL IN HILL'S HANDS.

Senator Is Expected to Name New York Democratic State Ticket.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Few of the delegates to the Democratic state convention, which is to begin its work here Tuesday, have arrived on the ground and these here know little as to nominees or platform. Talk in this direction is halting until the arrival of Senator Hill tomorrow morning.

It is generally understood that with the arrival of the senator the situation will be materially cleared, and while the fight over the governorship may go into the convention, the rest of the ticket will be named without concerted opposition.

Losing American Iron Trade.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The complaint is rife in British iron and steel circles that although inquiries still come liberally from the United States for pig iron and steel billets, the resulting business goes mostly to the continent.

Fatally Shoots Assailant.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Sept. 28.—Walter Shafeen today shot Norman Lutz on the street, at Yellow Bud, 15 miles north of this city. Lutz returned the fire and fatally shot Shafeen. Lutz was not fatally hurt.

Salt Rheum

You may call it eczema, tetter or milk crust.

But no matter what you call it, this skin disease which comes in patches that burn, itch, discharge a watery matter, dry and scale, owes its existence to the presence of humors in the system.

It will continue to exist, annoy, and perhaps agonize, as long as these humors remain.

It is always radically and permanently cured by which expels all humors, and is positively unequalled for all cutaneous eruptions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

STRENUOUS WEEK BEING PLANNED

ARMY MANEUVERS BEGIN IN EARNEST.

Instructions Would Indicate Anything from Ball Game to General Massacre.

FORT RILEY, KAN., Sept. 28.—Absolute quiet, as far as the army manoeuvres were concerned, prevailed at Camp Root today. The troops were not called upon to perform any work beyond that of the ordinary camp routine, but at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning will open a strenuous week for all arms of the service.

The manoeuver for Monday is vaguely described by Gen. Bates as "a problem of contact of opposing forces of all arms," which includes a possibility of anything between a baseball game and a general massacre. The exact nature of the problem to be solved is known only to the military umpires and to Gen. Bates and will not be divulged until the troops have marched out in the morning. The commanders will then be informed of the nature of the task ahead of them. The browns, however, will be in the minority, as usual, and the blues will have the preponderating force in the field. This is by actual count. Reinforced by the imagination, the browns will be of an equal strength.

The weather is now beautiful and the roads which last week were trails of mud are now dry and in good shape for marching. There are now but few men in the hospital, nearly all those who were due to rain-soaked clothing having recovered.

The officers of the National Guard are coming in rapidly and by Tuesday morning when the Kansas militia will have arrived, it is estimated that fully 500 officers, besides those of the Kansas guard, will be on the ground. So far there is but one captain among the National Guard officers, the others being colonels or generals. The hopelessly outranked captain comes from New York city, while the colonels and generals belong everywhere from California to Rhode Island and from Wisconsin to Texas. Gen. Funston arrived at camp this afternoon, coming as the guest of Gen. Bates. He came in an unofficial capacity, and will remain for a few days to witness the manoeuvers.

THREE SHOT DEAD.

Tragic Result of a West Virginia Crap Game—Deputy Sheriff One of the Victims.

THURMOND, W. VA., Sept. 28.—A deputy sheriff and two colored men are dead at Glen Jean as a result of a crap game today. "Black Diamond" of Mount Hope and Will Washington of Montgomery were rivals. Diamond shot Washington, killing him instantly.

Deputy Sheriff Watts started after Diamond, who tried to escape. When near Diamond the officer dismounted and followed his man on foot. Watts fired, mortally wounding Diamond, who, while lying on the ground, shot the deputy sheriff as he approached, killing him instantly.

A crowd of 100 or more had followed Watts. When they saw Watts fall they vowed vengeance. As the crowd neared Diamond, who was lying on the ground, the murderer cried for mercy. The crowd informed him that they proposed to fill him with lead and did so.

Millers Given Shorter Days.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 28.—There will be no strike of the employes of the flour mills of Minneapolis for, beginning October 13, the mills of Minneapolis will be operated on an eight-hour schedule, instead of under the present system of two 12-hour shifts. The men will not receive the same pay for eight hours as they did for the longer day, but they have expressed themselves satisfied with the schedule offered of wages by the millers and the best of feeling prevails on both sides.

Burglars in Millvale.

Burglars entered the residence of Martin Getz, near Franklin avenue near the outskirts of the Third ward, Millvale, in the absence of the family, late Saturday evening, and took $125 in bills, which were hidden in one of the upper rooms of the house. This is the second time that Mr. Getz has been robbed this year. In the early summer the house which he was then occupying, in North avenue, was entered and a small amount of money taken.

served the fate prepared for him, and asked that a letter be delivered to his mother and brother. He appealed to his brother to raise his children properly, admonishing them to beware of evil company.

Finally, all was in readiness, and the word was given to fire the funeral pile. The husband and brother of Clark's victim stepped forward and applied torches, and in a moment the flames leaped upward, enveloping the trembling negro in smoke and fire. The clothing of the doomed man was soon ignited, and as the flames grew hotter the skin began to parch. The negro moaned piteously at this juncture, and the agonizing look upon his face told of the awful torture he was undergoing. Finally his head fell forward upon his breast and in a few minutes all was over. The flames were fed by the crowd until the body was burned to a crisp.

Then the gathering, in an orderly manner, dispersed and the town soon assumed its normal condition.

MUDDY WATER PARTY AIDED BY SENATOR FLINN

Grimes Makes Public Some Interesting Correspondence on Ballot Reform.

SAYS 30 COUNTIES ARE IN THE SCHEME

Machine Legislature Candidates Are Given an Opportunity to Declare for Ballot Reform and Approve Referendum Idea.

The Flinn-Grimes "Muddy Water" party, officially known as the "Ballot Reform" party, is ready to be launched. Having given up hope of electing the machine county ticket through specious appeals to "Republican fealty" and by abuse of the Citizens-Democratic ticket, and knowing that the requisite number of votes to elect the machine county legislative and congressional tickets cannot be had, the Ballot Reform party was devised by the machine as a desperate effort to stem the tide. From the correspondence printed below it will readily be seen that William Flinn is one of the chief promoters of the Ballot Reform party, as he is of the Union party, and as Flinn's pretended retirement from the management of the machine has fooled nobody, everybody will realize that the Ballot Reform party was created by the machine to injure Pennypacker and benefit the machine ticket.

James F. Grimes, the founder, under William Flinn, of the Ballot Reform party, gave out a lot of correspondence yesterday, announcing the program and the progress hitherto of the party, and containing pledges from the machine legislative candidates to vote for ballot reform and the referendum. Mr. Grimes says:

Grimes Outlines Program.

"The Ballot Reform party will file nomination papers in Harrisburg from about 30 counties in the state, it has nominated Robert E. Pattison for governor, George W. Guthrie for lieutenant governor, and James Nolan for secretary of internal affairs. In about the same number of counties nomination papers will be filed for senatorial and legislative candidates who will support the ballot reform measures approved by our party. The movement has met with greater favor than our most sanguine hopes justified. Many prominent and influential men in the state have entered into the movement with enthusiasm.

"It is the intention of the leaders of the party to carry on a vigorous campaign in this and other counties of the state for its nominees and for ballot reform. We believe in the integrity and honesty of the people and earnestly seek the adoption of such laws as will give to the people the control of the public affairs, knowing that we shall then have good government 'of the people, by the people and for the people.'

"The great question of the day is that the crooked election boards of Philadelphia and other parts of the state shall be stamped out, and that in any part of the state a man's vote when cast shall be counted, and that 100,000 fraudulent votes shall not be continuously counted in this state.

Something About the Referendum.

"The Ballot Reform party has indorsed the referendum, which means that before acts of assembly or municipal ordinances granting franchises and privileges become a law they shall be submitted to the people affected for their approval or rejection, provided the required number of people petition for such submission within specified time. The referendum is daily growing in popularity among the masses, and never before in Pennsylvania has it received the indorsement of so many candidates for the legislature. Wherever the referendum is enforced it has been surprisingly successful."

After having consulted with Senator Flinn as to the best method by which to get the Ballot Reform party before the public it was decided that Grimes should write a letter to Flinn. The letter is dated September 18. In it Grimes asks Flinn for drafts of the acts regulating elections which Flinn introduced in the Pennsylvania senate.

Flinn responded as follows, in a letter dated September 23, and written in the Ballot Reform party's headquarters, in the Times building:

Flinn's Hand Is Seen.

"Dear Sir—Complying with your request of the 18th inst. I take pleasure in forwarding you copies of bills regulating primary elections and general elections in this commonwealth, the latter known as the Australian system. These bills were introduced by me in the senate at its last session. The committee on elections, under the direction of the Republican state leaders, refused to consider them, or report them either affirmatively or negatively, or give me a hearing on them.

"I gave a copy of this latter bill to Col. J. M. Guffey, who had the same introduced in the senate; it was known as the 'Guffey' bill.

"It is a calamity that the leaders of the Republican state organization have so often failed to keep their specific pledges in favor of more stringent election laws that will make elections honest. It is a well-known fact that in many of the election districts of the state (notably in Philadelphia) the elections are farces; many of the election boards are imported from Baltimore, Washington, New Jersey and other points for fraudulent purposes.

"I firmly believe that stuffing ballot boxes, impersonating voters, and other frauds practiced at elections should be treated as treason against the state, and the punishment for the same should be of the most severe kind, which you will observe is fully covered in these bills.

"I also inclose you draft of bill relating to personal registration of voters in cities of the commonwealth, drafted by me in accordance with constitutional amendments, which I introduced and which was approved by the people at the last general election."

Candidates Answer as Told to Do.

In pursuance of the advice of Senator Flinn, Mr. Grimes next sent to each of Flinn's (the machine's) legislative candidates a letter in which he inclosed copies of Flinn's acts regulating primary and general elections, and of an act regulating personal registration, and asked the candidates what they thought about the proposed laws. The Ballot Reform party was also in favor of the referendum, he added. All the candidates, except Col. Henry Hall, responded as Flinn instructed them to do, the Citizens party candidates not having had the opportunity presented to them by Grimes to say how they would stand if elected. The machine candidates said they were in favor of the proposed election and registration acts and thought the referendum a good thing.

REASONS WHY GOSPEL SHOULD BE ACCEPTED

The Rev. Dr. G. W. Terbush Preached a Logical Sermon Yesterday.

The Rev. Dr. G. W. Terbush, pastor of the West End Methodist Episcopal church, delivered yesterday at his morning service a sermon on "An Accrediting Voice." He chose as his text, Matt. xvii:5, "While He yet spake, behold a bright cloud overshadowed them and behold, a voice out of the cloud which said: 'This is My beloved Son in whom I am well pleased. Hear ye Him.'" The sermon was in part as follows:

"Are all gospel narratives cunningly devised fables or do they give us an account of things which actually took place?

"If the former is true, then all who bow to the authority of Jesus of Nazereth are worshipers at a false shrine, but if the latter be true, and the historic verity of these narratives be established—then two things are absolutely certain: First—Jesus Christ is the Son of the living God; and second, He is the divinely accredited religious teacher of mankind.

"Then, under the thought of the historic truthfulness of these narratives we are given the impression: First—That the truthfulness which is evident as we read is an argument in favor of the historic verity of them; second, that their composition by eyewitnesses of the events which they chronicle, or the companions of those eyewitnesses, gives us an argument of their truthfulness.

"Their truthfulness being established, Jesus is the Son of God, 'This is my beloved Son;' and he is the divinely authorized teacher of the race. 'Hear ye Him.' In bowing to His authority, we worship at a shrine upon which rests the smile of God."

PATTISON WAS FAIRLY BUSY ALL OF YESTERDAY

Attended Church in the Morning and a Conference in the Afternoon.

PHILADELPHIA SITUATION REPORTED

Measures to Prevent Alleged Election Frauds in Quaker City Principal Topic Discussed at Meeting of Democratic Leaders.

Robert E. Pattison, the Democratic candidate for governor, and the party accompanying him on his campaigning trip, will leave Pittsburgh this morning on the Erie & Pittsburgh railroad. They spent a quiet day yesterday, Mr. Pattison having attended church and Sunday school in the morning.

Mr. Pattison is greatly interested in the work of preventing alleged election frauds in Philadelphia, and yesterday he received from that city a report from the organization formed in his interest. The report was made by Eugene C. Bonniwell, secretary of the committee of 200. This was the first time in his two weeks of campaigning that Mr. Pattison has been able to take the time to hear from Philadelphia.

Mr. Pattison was the guest of W. S. Guffey. Yesterday morning Mr. Pattison took Mr. Guffey to Christ Methodist Episcopal church, in the East End, where they visited the Sunday school, Mr. Pattison talking to the children and Mr. Guffey being an interested onlooker.

Many Greeted Mr. Pattison at Church.

Mr. Pattison and Mr. Guffey also attended the morning services in the same church. After services were over several members of the congregation spoke to Mr. Pattison as he was coming out, and when he reached the portico he was surrounded by members of the church. Some of them were introduced by Mr. Gaffey, some of them Mr. Pattison knew, and others introduced themselves and their wives. Dinner was eaten at Mr. Guffey's house, and after dinner Mr. Pattison and Mr. Guffey went to the Hotel Schenley. There they were met by George W. Guthrie, Col. James M. Guffey, James Nolan, the candidate for secretary of internal affairs; Dallas M. Sanders of Philadelphia, Eugene C. Bonniwell and Charles A. Fagan of Pittsburgh. The party repaired to a private room for conference.

Mr. Bonniwell reported that the work of the citizens' committee of 200 in Philadelphia was progressing favorably. Tomorrow ward meetings will be held all over Philadelphia, a plan of compaign to prevent alleged election frauds will be mapped out, and an effort will be made to secure watchers for the polls on election day. It is expected that from 3,000 to 5,000 men will volunteer for this duty, in addition to the usual number of watchers who will stay in the election rooms to watch the vote and the counting of the ballots.

Mr. Pattison was asked his impressions of the campaign, so far as it has gone. "The campaign is young yet," he replied. "Our meetings have been well attended, but big crowds are not always, I admit, a measure of the prospects for the end of the campaign. I have remarked that great interest is taken in the campaign, and unusual interest is displayed in the country districts. In fact, in the country the crowds are greater than we ever had before, during my two previous campaigns, for example. The result, in my opinion, will largely depend upon the vote in Philadelphia. If there should be a large vote, then there will not be such a large proportion of fraud. Repeaters and other men who intend to commit fraud will hesitate if a large vote turns out; they will be afraid to commit fraud if great interest in the election is shown, for frauds are not committed so easily when the citizens generally go to the polls."

In Philadelphia the Democratic organization and the Citizens committee of 200 will ask the quarter sessions judges to hold court on election day, so that attempted election frauds may be prevented, illegally, unjustly arrested prisoners be bailed out and justly arrested prisoners be held. The bill making election day a legal holiday was signed by Mr. Pattison when he was governor, and while, as he said himself yesterday, the law is a good law, the judges of the courts in Philadelphia will not hold court on that day.

Election Frauds Talked Of.

"So far as I know, the judges of the quarter sessions court have never held court on election day since the law was passed," said Mr. Pattison. "I know they did not last year, although they were petitioned to have a session. It is our intention to send a petition to the judges to hold court on that day in Philadelphia. Heretofore we have waited until the day before election before doing so, but this time we will make the request earlier.

"Investigation has shown that great registration frauds have been committed, and it is the intention to prosecute certain assessors in Philadelphia. Illegal acts committed by the police will be punished."

Mr. Bonniwell had with him copies of the registry list of several Philadelphia election districts. In one of them, he said to Mr. Pattison, more than 200 men were registered from 11 houses in the district, more than half of the total registration of the district.

The campaigning party will leave Pittsburgh over the Erie & Pittsburgh railroad from the Union station at 7:30 a. m. Stops will be made at Sharon, Shenango, Stoneboro and Mercer, where speeches will be made. James A. Stranahan joined Mr. Pattison last night.

Mrs. Termin kept firing but none of the other five bullets took effect.

LIFE RETAINED FOR 3,000 YEARS

Corn Raised from Seed Buried Ten Centuries Before Christ's Coming

STRANGE WORMS ON STALKS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 28.—The Rev. R. L. Jones of Bentleyville, a retired Methodist Episcopal clergyman, has raised a dozen or more stalks of corn that present a somewhat mysterious proposition to their owner and to others in the community who have seen them.

The story goes that this corn has come from seed that were 3,000 years old, dug up by archaeologists in Egypt. Mr. Jones received the seed as a present from Adam P. Hopkins of Rochester, Pa., a former resident of West Pike Run township, Washington county. Mr. Hopkins secured the seed while on a tour in the holy land.

The corn stalks in Mr. Jones' garden are 14 feet high, and the immense ears of corn are entirely too high for a man of ordinary stature to reach. The ears are, some of them, nearly two feet in length, and the grains are blood red in color.

These remarkable corn stalks have grown from seed that were dried up and shriveled until they were no larger than grains of wheat. They were found in sealed packages in Egyptian places known to have been covered 1,000 years before the birth of Christ.

Dr. E. E. French of Bentleyville has preserved in alcohol several worms found on the blades of the corn stalks, because of the peculiarity of their appearance. They look like diminutive horned devils, and it has been noticed that as soon as they are placed on the ordinary corn stalks they either die in a short time or manage to get back in some way to the Egyptian stalks, where it is evident they can alone secure sustenance.

Mr. Jones' corn crop has attracted many sightseers from all parts of the county, and several of the ears have been on exhibition at various fairs held throughout the county.

Inasmuch as the corn of Egypt was not maize, or Indian corn, some other origin will have to be found for the Rev. Mr. Jones' extraordinary corn crop. Indian corn is indigenous to America and was unknown to the old world before Columbus discovered the new world.

MABEL WILLIAMS DIED UNDER AN OPERATION

Three Men and Woman Accused of Being Responsible—Verdict of Coroner's Jury.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Sept. 28.—This afternoon a jury empaneled to examine into the cause of the death of Miss Mabel Williams of Conemaugh, who died under suspicious circumstances at the Talbitzer boarding house in New Castle, returned a verdict that Miss Williams' death was the direct result of a criminal operation committed by Albert Itell of Pittsburgh, Dr. Cooper and Mrs. Talbitzer of New Castle, Pa., and an unknown doctor from Edinboro, Pa.

The girl left home on the morning of September 5, presumably for Altoona, but instead came to Johnstown and took a train to Pittsburgh. There she met Itell, who has since confessed himself to be the author of the girl's trouble, and has admitted making the arrangements and furnishing the girl money to pay all of her expenses.

The jury incriminated Dr. Cooper and Mrs. Talbitzer on the strength of the evidence offered by the father of the dead girl, who also received Itell's confession.

CAPTURED ON TRAIN.

Brakeman Recognizes Negro Wanted on Charge of Murder.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Sept. 28.—(Special.)—Charles Whitlock, a negro murderer, was captured near Roncevert, W. Va., in a novel manner. A brakeman named Meredith discovered Whitlock resting on the front buffer of the first car of his train. After making preparations, Meredith went forward, but to his surprise the negro was gone. He looked around and soon located Whitlock, who had taken refuge in the hollow end of a pressed steel car.

Meredith drew a gun and commanded Whitlock to surrender, which he did, acknowledging his identity. The railroader handed him over at the next station and will secure $100 reward. Whitlock killed a negro named Rayburn some weeks ago.

Ready to Open Fair.

BURGETTSTOWN, PA., Sept. 28.—(Special.)—The Union Agricultural association of Burgettstown, Washington county, will hold its 47th annual exhibition on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The fair is efficiently officered this year as follows: President, John L. McGough; treasurer, R. F. Linn, and secretary, R. P. Stevenson. The entries for stock and speed are closed. Some of the best stock in the states of Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania is entered.

Daring Holdup at New Castle.

NEW CASTLE, Sept. 28.—(Special.)—Miss Myrtle Hughes of Milito street was the victim of an audacious holdup on Hutcham street last night as she was returning home with a girl friend. An unknown negro attacked her from behind and wrenched her chatelaine pocketbook from her belt. It contained several dollars. The robbery occurred under an arc light in the resident district.

HAS HARD BATTLE WITH BIG CATFISH.

Crestline Man Takes Ohio Prize for Season's Best Fish Story.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CRESTLINE, O., Sept. 28.—Tiffany Anniser, a young drug clerk, wins the season's fish story prize in this section. He says he had been fishing probably an hour in a shallow stream without getting a bite and had about decided to return home, when a hearty pull at the line caused him to change his mind. After quite a struggle he succeeded in getting the captive near shore and was dumbfounded by a monster catfish, that for size, beat anything he had ever seen or read about.

Contrary to the usual rule, this catfish was not of the usual lazy specie, but showed fight, and when it had been pulled nearly to the shore it darted back to midstream with great rapidity, pulling young Anniser into the creek.

The catfish at this point turned and made straight for the half-drowned fisherman, who only escaped by scrambling up the bank. Before he had reached the top the catfish made another dash for liberty, dragging the now terrified angler back into the water again. The catfish now thoroughly angered at not being able to get away, charged at young Anniser again. He was not so fortunate this time in escaping. The maddened fish caught him by the calf of the left leg, tearing his trousers and badly lacerating the flesh.

The injured man scrambled up the bank and limped home, where the wound was attended. It is not serious, but very painful, and young Anniser left today for his home in Indiana.

MINISTER RESIGNS.

The Rev. Thomas J. Sherrard Leaves Pulpit of Chambersburg Church Because of Ill-Health.

CHAMBERSBURG, PA., Sept. 28.—(Special.)—The Rev. Thomas J. Sherrard, for 12 years pastor of Central Presbyterian church at this place, announced his resignation at the service this morning. The step was taken upon the advice of the minister's physicians, who told him that longer active service would cause fatal illness.

Some months ago Mr. Sherrard was examined by Philadelphia specialists and his condition diagnosed as serious. He was granted a vacation of three months, in the hope that he would be able to resume his duties with his old-time vigor. This morning he told the congregation that instead of improving he was growing worse.

Mr. Sherrard came here from Washington, Pa., in June, 1890. He is one of the best known members of Carlisle presbytery, a former trustee of Wilson college and a brother of the Rev. John Sherrard of the Allegheny presbytery.

TEN PAGES.

The Grimes Party Again.

Once more the ballot reform party—that is, the Grimes party—is heard from. Mr. Grimes reports that nominations under that caption will be filed from 30 counties in the state, and that all of the Republican legislative candidates in Allegheny county, except the Hon. Henry Hall, have pledged themselves to ballot reform as represented by what he and Senator Flinn call the "Guffey bill" of last session. Incidentally, Mr. Grimes and Mr. Flinn have had some heart to heart correspondence about the matter that is interesting, if not edifying.

About the only effect this proclamation can have is to put Henry Hall on an honorable eminence as the one legislative candidate on the machine ticket who will not stoop to recognize the Grimes party. As for the others who so freely give their pledges, "if elected," some are new men who may be excused on the score of inexperience, while others are known to be opposed to any kind of reform. Real ballot reform will not come before the legislature in the shape of the "Guffey bill," as the wily machine candidates know, so their pledges are, in fact, promises to oppose improvement of the election laws.

More might be said along this line, but there is no occasion for taking the Grimes party seriously. It is an annex to the Hon. William Flinn and will assist him to realize his repeated declaration that he is out of politics.

No Cause for Alarm.

Although it was necessary to perform a second operation on President Roosevelt's leg yesterday there is no cause for alarm. The first operation, by which an abscess was discharged, did not go deep enough. The operation yesterday discovered injury to the bone. That having been attended to there is no reason why as healthy a man as the president should not make an uninterrupted recovery. Ten days of complete rest will do no harm to him or the country. That should be sufficient to heal the wound, though it may be necessary to avoid taxing the injured limb for a longer time.

Grossest Misrepresentation.

Candor and fairness are qualities foreign to the afternoon ring organ. It cannot even understand them. Upon the correction of certain misapprehensions of fact by The Gazette that organ built a fabric of grossest misrepresentation yesterday. The Gazette was fair enough to give Director Leslie a hearing and the benefit of any facts that might appear in his favor. The machine organ ignores the rather effective reply of Controller Larkin and misrepresents the entire situation.

Controller Larkin states the contract for the Twenty-third ward engine house has never been submitted for his counter signature. Such being the case he is certainly not responsible for any delay in the matter, as The Gazette indicated. As to the municipal hospital, there is an amount of maneuvering that is likely to cost the city dearly. In fact, the machine methods have been so devious that a plain business proposition appears to be impossible with it.

Consumption of Sugar.

There can be no doubt that Americans have several sweet teeth in their mouths. Every head of a family knows that the consumption of sugar is heavy, and the number of candy stores testifies to the large consumption of sweets. It will be a surprise to many to learn, however, that the consumption of sugar per capita is considerably less in the United States than it is in the United Kingdom. In America the average consumption of sugar is 65 pounds and some ounces to each individual, but in the United Kingdom it is more than 91 pounds. Switzerland comes close after the United States, with 60 pounds. France's per capita consumption is 37 and Germany's almost 34 pounds. The smallest consumption of sugar is found in Spain, Turkey, Greece and Italy, being respectively 10, 8, 7 and 6 pounds.

The world as a whole uses far more sugar than it formerly did, the consumption being at present eight times as great as it was in 1840, with no signs of diminution.

Lack of Power.

What the courts may do in a given case cannot always be accurately forecasted, but it is reasonably safe to assume with regard to the attempt of citizens of Boston to have the supreme court of Massachusetts appoint receivers to operate the coal-carrying roads and the anthracite coal mines for the benefit of the people, that it will not succeed. To the lay mind there is no ground on which the courts of Massachusetts can claim jurisdiction. If the courts take this view of it, it is not difficult to see what becomes of the equity case. But should they claim jurisdiction there are other courts in which the claim would be contested, so that the proposed receivership in any event is not in immediate prospect of assuming material form.

The action of the Bostonians proceeds from a theory of the situation that the community of interests and united purpose of the persons owning or controlling the corporations operating the transportation lines and the coal mines makes them a legal unit capable of being dealt with as such. But the theory is wrong. As a matter of fact, they are not one in the eyes of the law, and must be proceeded against separately. In such proceedings the managers of the transportation corporations can plead with a large show of justice that they are ready and both willing and anxious to carry coal; that as a matter of fact they are not refusing to carry it, but that it is not their business to mine coal and they are powerless to do so. As for the miners of anthracite coal, they cannot be dealt with by the Massachusetts courts, as the mines are wholly within the state of Pennsylvania and subject only to the courts of this state.

It does not appear, therefore, that there is any way provided for the courts of Massachusetts to deal effectively with the anthracite coal situation. That power should be somewhere vested that would afford relief for the people who are now actually suffering and will suffer more for one of the comforts (the proper term, perhaps, is necessaries) of life is generally admitted. Whether power does exist somewhere is a debatable question, but if it does its source is not in Massachusetts. Even the laws of the United States in regulation of interstate commerce are held by high legal authority not to apply, and the lay mind can, without strain, detect the difference in principle between the regulation of commerce between the states and compulsion to furnish a product to enter into interstate commerce. Whether there is a conspiracy between the officers of the coal-carrying roads that operate in several states and the owners and managers of the mines that are wholly within this state that would make them amenable to the anti-trust law has little bearing on the general strike situation (the differences between operators and miners), or on the present needs of the public. The anti-trust law has in contemplation other acts than strikes or lockouts. Apparently to give relief to the people in an event like the present there is need of new legislation.

More Troops Called.

Another troop of cavalry has been ordered to the anthracite mining region, the Sheridan troop of Tyrone. There has been no new development in the situation, but it has been found the troops already on the ground are insufficient to prevent disorder. The cavalry is particularly valuable because it can move more rapidly than infantry. Such disorder as has occurred and the threatening attitude of the strikers leaves nothing of President Mitchell's efforts to win a peaceable strike. The only peace that exists is what the troops and sheriffs fight for, and the conditions are well-nigh intolerable. The menace of an open rupture between strikers and soldiers is ever present, though every one knows what the result of open warfare would be.

Foreign Trade Statistics.

We have become familiar with the opinions of British captains of industry concerning the American invasion of foreign markets, and its effect on English business, and now there is available a government view of the whole subject of the foreign trade of the four leading exporting countries. A blue book has been published, compiled by Sir Alfred E. Bateman, bringing down to date information of a similar sort presented to parliament early in 1897. Sir Alfred treats exhaustively the inter-relation of the growth of population and foreign trade in Great Britain, the United States, Germany and France. America shows the largest percentage of increase in population since 1871, a rate of over 1½ per cent per annum. In Great Britain and Germany the increase is 1 per cent, and in France practically nothing.

Sir Alfred discusses population and its distribution into urban and suburban classes, because of the relation of the number of producing persons to the quantity of articles exported. He finds that both the United States and Germany have increased their non-agricultural population more quickly than Great Britain. In absolute numbers Germany's increase in 30 years is 15,750,000, while the total increase of the population of Great Britain was only 10,000,000. The American figures are still more striking. The town population of the United States increased 17,000,000 in 30 years, being 7,000,000 in excess of Great Britain's total increase. The significance of these comparisons lies in the fact that the producers of exportable goods are multiplying in the United States and Germany much more rapidly than in Great Britain.

Sir Alfred's view of foreign trade comprises a comparison of five-year periods, and in the present memorandum he compares the commercial statistics of 1880-84 with 1896-1900, with the result of finding for Great Britain an increase in foreign trade of 6.4 per cent; for France, 8.7 per cent; for Germany, 23.1 per cent, and for the United States, 42.8 per cent. These comparisons show unmistakably the trend of foreign commerce. The United States and Germany are England's strongest competitors, with this country a long way ahead of the kaiser's dominion. Sir Alfred finds comfort in the fact that so far the exports per capita from the United Kingdom are still much in excess of what they are in any one of the other three countries, but he recognizes the changing conditions, and tells parliament that "England can scarcely expect to maintain her past undoubted pre-eminence, at any rate, without strenuous effort and careful and energetic improvement in method."

Discussing Issues.

Had the opponents of Judge Pennypacker conceived in advance how frankly and explicitly he would meet their challenge to discuss state issues, we doubt not they would have let him alone. It is another proof of the Republican candidate's absolute honesty that, having convictions, he is not disposed to hide them under a bushel, and that when challenged to discuss state issues he should immediately turn his attention to the record of the two parties in Pennsylvania. The result has been somewhat disconcerting to the other side. It has demonstrated that Judge Pennypacker has studied the political history of Pennsylvania to some effect. He remembers the results of Democratic supremacy both in this state and in the nation. He has also, as possibly no other public man in Pennsylvania today, a vivid knowledge of the progress and development of the state under the fostering care of Republican policies. His knowledge of history is not confined, as some of his enemies have declared, to the revolutionary period. He discusses state affairs with all the keen knowledge and intimate understanding of a close observer.

Now, will the Democratic opponents of the judge be as kind and consent to discuss national issues, which are vitally involved in all the state campaigns this fall? While endeavoring to run away with the credit of being the sole defenders of state honor the Democrats have been confronted with facts that leave them with a shaky state record to answer for in addition to the history of national blundering, from Cleveland free tradeism (with its free soup accompaniment) to Bryan free silverism.

Crime in New York.

It is not unnatural that in a city the size of New York, containing as it does a population drawn from every quarter of the globe, that there should be a great deal of crime. Were the police and detective force of the metropolis twice as vigilant and efficient as it is this would be inevitably the case; but the recent carnival of evil in that city is hard to explain, even upon the grounds of dense population and its cosmopolitan character. One murder after another has followed in New York within the past few weeks until the police find themselves confronted with three startling crimes, at least two of which possess peculiar elements of mystery and fiendishness. The enemies of New York's reform government declare the police department of the city is thoroughly demoralized consequent upon the shaking up that followed the incoming of the Low administration.

This explanation is partisan. Changing political regimes does not affect the incentive to crime, however much it might increase the opportunity. On this latter point the evidence is not clear as to the responsibility of the new administration.

Princeton is going to corner all the executive talent that is going. She has invited the only ex-president of the United States to meet the present president and at the same time will have the only ex-president of Princeton meet the present executive of that institution.

One of the United States diplomats who was promoted in the recent changes made in the foreign service was once a truckman in a freight depot. The fact is an honor to the recipient and may also explain the assumption of the diplomatic habit.

As Judge Pennypacker has shown so much honesty and frankness in the discussion of state issues, wouldn't it be only a fair divide for Uncle Bob Pattison to take a whirl at national issues?

If the recent experiment of bull-baiting tried in an Ohio town should become popular in that state we fear the Tom Johnson circus would suffer heavily in its box office department.

Senator Hanna's advice to the Ohio Republicans to "stand pat" recalls the fact that there is considerable four-flushing on the other side in that state.

Not Peculiar to New York.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

New Yorkers, or some of them at least, are asking for a new police headquarters, but if there is any foundation for what the critics of that organization continue to say, what New York first needs is a new police force.

WORRYING ABOUT FIRST COLD SNAP

Twenty-Dollar Coal, Soft and Dirty at That, for the Few Who Can Afford It.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Sept. 28.

With soft coal $11 a ton and anthracite out of sight, no wonder New York is worrying hard over the coal situation. There has been more time than usual today for paterfamilias to wonder how he is going to face the famine in fuel and to cogitate over the empty coal bin in the cellar. It is a fact that actually New York has no coal, and does not see where it is to be got. Dealers that have still a few tons are parting with it gradually to old customers in quarter and half-ton lots, at as high as $20 a ton in some cases. Before Sunday next the indications are that there will be none at any price. It is said that a few wholesale men have soft coal in respectable quantities, but they are holding it because they know that they will be able to demand any price they like in the course of another week or two. November often is a chilly month, and when the first cold snap strikes the city there will be such a yell for fuel that something must break loose. Then will be the time that $20 a ton for soft coal will be a probability. There are rumors that a lot of wood is on its way here, and that it will be used instead of coal, wherever possible. How much that would relieve the pressure is a matter of conjecture. Hospitals are suffering, some of them having only enough coal to see over today, with poor prospects of getting more tomorrow. In such institutions, where it is a matter of life and death to keep the wards in an equable temperature, the coal famine is a dreadful thing, indeed. Among those that are suffering heavily in pocket are the coal dealers under contract to supply the city at prices ranging from $5 a ton up to, say, $5.25. If the city insists on the carrying out of these agreements, it must inevitably ruin many of the dealers. They made the mistake of not including a strike clause in their contracts, and the city can compel the delivery of coal, no matter at what loss to the dealers, if it chooses to do so. Take it all in all, New York is suffering from the miners' strike more than any other city in the country.

New Yorkers Dislike to Stay Indoors.

So glad were New Yorkers to get even a little let-up in the rain yesterday, that they went to the matinees wholesale. It did not rain in the afternoon, and it seemed as if every woman with a pretty street costume had put it on for the pleasure of wearing it in a Broadway theater. Similar conditions prevailed this morning at the churches. The weather was not inviting, but femininity turned out in force, and the fashionable places of worship all were crowded. People in this city are not used to being kept in by bad weather for any length of time, and they will take more chances of a soaking to attend church than those of most other communities. It is not that they are more devout—only that they do not like to be kept indoors.

Power of Curiosity.

Morbid curiosity today drew large crowds to the outside of the Chinese restaurant, just off Broadway, in which occurred a brutal murder yesterday. Curiosity is a strong sentiment in New York, and many of the men and women that stop and gaze at the place would be horrified at the mere thought of giving it any attention at another time.

Street Commissioner in Hot Water.

Maj. Woodbury, commissioner of street cleaning, has set Brooklynites by the ears by referring to their borough as "a dirty hole." It seems as if the major is hardly consistent. His remark was called forth because the merchants of Wallabout market objected to his establishing a stable for his department in the middle of the market. The objectors do not think it would be exactly the proper thing to stable horses among butcher shops and places where other human food is sold. They told the major so, and he responded by snapping out: "Then let Brooklyn remain the dirty hole it is. I'll wash my hands of it." People over there think that the major either should apologize, fight or clean the streets, and threaten to bring the matter before the much harassed Mayor Low.

Almost the Record Price for Ground.

The second highest price ever paid for a parcel of Manhattan realty was recorded last week. The southwest corner of Madison avenue and Forty-second street, a small lot, containing 1,025 square feet, was sold for $250,000. This figure, about $244 a square foot, can be hardly taken as a criterion, however, because it is possible that the purchasers, Drs. A. H. and D. A. Smith, intend to purchase the entire Madison avenue front, with adjacent properties in Forty-first and Forty-second streets, on which to erect a great medical institution. If that is the case, the price paid may be regarded as extraordinary and not regulated by the real estate market. In any case, it shows what people will pay for land in the heart of New York when they want it badly.

Automobiles to Be Regulated.

Automobiles are so much a part of daily life in New York that regulations of their use are coming thick and fast. Speed limitations, restrictions of the machines to certain roadways, and now the licensing of chauffeurs, all have been considered. The last mentioned precaution is under consideration. An ordinance has been drawn up and may be passed. The danger from automobiles not controlled by experts is too real to be lightly regarded.

Woman Enterprises Too Frequent.

There seems to be some jealous feeling between the women interested in the projected bazaar of the New York State Federation of Women's clubs and the managers of the women's exhibit. The trouble is that the women's exhibit is scheduled for October, while the "Fed." function will not take place until November. Merchants asked to contribute for the bazaar say they have given all they can spare for the women's exhibit, and that takes the heart out of the "Fed." workers. It is to be feared that the bazaar will be abandoned, although it is still announced for the 6th, 7th and 8th of November. It is a sad state of things, although the women's exhibit contingent is not worrying.

Democracy Unsettled.

Such Democrats as are in this city tonight have their mental gaze fixed on Saratoga. What the convention will do is as much a matter of surmise tonight as it has been any time these six weeks past. David B. Hill did not know who would be the standard-bearer when he left New York city last night, and, so far as can be learned from Saratoga, everybody there is in the dark. Interest in the situation there has overshadowed every other consideration here this evening.

"Iris" Attacked and Defended.

"Iris," Pinero's latest drama of nastiness, is packing the Criterion theater. Virginia Harned, who plays the title role, has stepped into print in one of the evening papers here to say that the great truths impressed by the play are beneficial, and that "Iris" is not a demoralizing play as the critics say it is. All of which shows that the press agent is busy. Miss Harned makes out a fairly good case for "Iris," but the answers from the other side are equally good. Meanwhile, one has to secure a seat a week ahead if one desires to get into a position in the theater where one can see and hear.

Duss' Season Ends in Triumph.

John S. Duss ended his engagement tonight at Madison Square garden in a blaze of electric lights and thunders of harmony. The attendance was large. Everybody supposed it would be, and there was no surprise when one looked across the vast auditorium and saw how it had been filled with admirers of the talented Pittsburgher. Some Sunday night concerts in New York are dull when they are concerts pure and simple, without vaudeville adjuncts; but the gathering tonight at Madison Square garden was as joyous an occasion as one could desire. It was a fitting way to end three months of triumph in the metropolis, and the band and its leader both worked hard to achieve the victory that was theirs.

Progress on the Subway.

It is officially stated that three-fifths of the rapid transit subway is completed. That means that New Yorkers will be whizzed from the Battery to Harlem underground in 15 minutes by Christmas of next year. The work has been done even faster than the contract required, and New Yorkers are beginning to consider the tunnel route as a factor in their daily life. It looks as if the go-ahead Gothamite will get used to the idea of subterranean rapid transit before he tries it. Perhaps the continued blasting and hubbub amid which he has lived for two years past has had a great deal to do with it. One thing is certain, that he is heartily glad the confusion and noise is drawing to an end. He has had a strenuous time of it since McDonald and his cohorts began operations.

Poor Picking for Office Seekers.

If officeseekers in this city are sad, there is some cogent reason for their depression. At the election to be held on November 4 in New York, there will be 118 offices to be filled, including those throughout the state, headed by the governorship. Last November there was 870 places to be filled, about three times as many as now. No wonder Tammanyites—understood to be the most persistent officeseekers on the Atlantic coast—are weeping over the present conditions of the time.

Bishop Pleases Tammany.

Tammanyites think they have another voter coming into their ranks because Bishop Potter sent an inquiree to the Wigwam in the interest of a man who wanted to take out his naturalization papers. Tammany is not accustomed to entertaining Episcopal clergymen. Bishop Potter has friends among the braves, but he seldom moves among them, save in a casual way. Even yesterday, when he desired to get some information, he sent a representative to the Wigwam, but that was enough to please the faithful who are always on guard there, and they begin to feel that they are on almost intimate terms with the bishop.

Strait-Laced Jersey City.

It was a dryer Sunday in Jersey City than it has been for years. The excise laws were enforced to some extent at all times, but the strings were pulled a little tighter today. Jersey lightning was not easily to be obtained, while applejack and other liquid delights peculiar to the state were kept closely under lock and key. The Temperance alliance has affiliated with the Hudson County Law and Order society in a crusade against Sunday liquor selling and saloonkeepers were extremely cautious today. The crusaders had informed themselves on the machinery of many side doors, and regular customers who have always been able to get their nip by going discreetly to the back or side doors, have had to do the best they could with soda water and other dreadful substitutes. In the suburban towns of Jersey one can usually get anything in the way of liquor or beer by asking for it, with the money to pay for it, on Sunday or any other day; but Jersey City, with its metropolitan aspirations, is becoming exceedingly strait-laced in this connection.

Took Liberty With City Hall.

City hall is a public building, but it is not expected, as a rule, that it shall be used as an employment agency. When Mayor Low saw a crowd of stalwart young Germans gather on the steps, almost under his windows, yesterday, he asked what it meant. The explanation was given that some one had advertised in a German paper for 200 men to work. About the time that most of the young Germans had decided that it was a hoax, and had departed, a young man appeared and said that he was the advertiser. He wanted men to work on his farm up the state, and thought it would be better to have his men meet at city hall instead of in an office. He hired the men that were left and went away with them. It never seemed to occur to the young man that he had been taking a liberty with public property, and none of the Tammany policemen on guard recovered from their astonishment at his nerve in time to remind him.

Few Changes in Play Bills.

Theatrical openings this week in New York will be "The Rose of Plymouth Town," at the Manhattan, tomorrow night, and "The Two Schools," at the Madison square on Tuesday. There will be changes of various kinds at other houses, but nothing startling, so far as announced.

A Great Week for "Also Rans."

Racing men—that is, men that bet on races—have had a hard time at Scheepshead bay for the last few days, to know what to pick of the many "good things" entered, because the muddy track has set all calculations at naught. The horses have had to splash through quagmires in most of the races, and many a horse has come under the wire ahead of all the others who was regarded as nothing better than an "also ran." The mere fact that rain has descended in torrents while some of the races have taken place, has not been sufficient to disheartен the race course habitue. He has stood calmly in pelting showers to see the contests decided without grumbling, particularly when his choice won. What does a lover of racing care for a little rain?

SMALL BOY'S JOY WON IN THE END

How the Feelings of a Benevolent-Looking Lady Were Changed.

As the benevolent-looking old lady turned off Sixth avenue into Sixteenth street, says the New York Times, a small boy on the opposite pavement threw a stick, which landed almost at her feet.

"Sick it, Yap," he yelled.

Obedient to the call, a yellow cur dashed across the street and pounced upon the stick, thereby getting directly under the lady's feet, causing her to trip and scream. An explosion of laughter burst from the small boy, and the lady turned upon him in wrath.

"What do you mean! You ought to be ashamed of yourself!" she called over at him.

The small boy did not apologize. He only grinned over at the old lady in a most exasperating manner. "I didn't mean to," he called back. And then he recovered the stick from Yap and threw it before him up the street; and as the dog charged again, they boy rent the air with a shrill blast of whistling and followed after. The old lady fumed and scolded as she walked along, following the youngster with indignant eyes.

"I don't know what the world is coming to, anyhow! Such children as we have nowadays! No respect, no kindness, no consideration—"

Just here the small boy spied a cat on the steps of one of the private houses on the north side of the street, and with another yell he and Yap started in pursuit. The old lady paused to take this in, and then continued on her way, scolding more than ever. She was sure that creation was in a bad way, indeed.

At the Hospital.

After a while she reached the New York hospital, where the usual crowd of the halt and maimed stood outside the gate, waiting for the free clinic to open. In the line was a weary woman holding a struggling, crying child. The benevolent old lady paused as she came up, stuck two fingers out at it playfully, and cooed, after the fashion of women with babies. But the child only squirmed and cried the harder.

"What ails him?" asked the lady, kindly.

"He's hurt his leg so's he can't stand, and yet he's bent on getting down, the young divil," said the tired mother.

"Dear me!" said the old lady, and she cooed to the child again, but he refused to be pacified. So she smiled kindly but helplessly upon the mother, and began to move on. Just then a stick rattled on the pavement by the group, and the old lady's face became severe as she turned to see a yellow dog pounce upon it and behold a small boy trotting up, whistling as he came.

The baby saw the dog and stopped crying. "Bow," he said. Then he looked from the dog to the boy.

The boy grinned back at him. "Hullo," he said.

"Bow," said the baby and stretched out an arm toward the dog.

"Baby want'er see Bow beg?" asked the boy.

The baby gurgled and smiled, with half-dried eyes.

"Bow! Beg!" he echoed, rapturously.

Some Surprising Antics.

"'Ere, Yap," said the boy; and he cracked his fingers in the air, and the little yellow dog sat erect on the pavement. The baby crowed with delight and wriggled to get down.

"Here, I'll hold him," said the small boy. He sat on the coping beneath the iron railing which fences the hospital grounds and stretched up his arms. "I'll hold him," he said. "I want'er show him Bow turn a somersault."

The weary mother, with a sigh of relief, dropped the baby on the boy's knee, and he proceeded to put Yap through a whole circus of tricks, while the youngster laughed and forgot his woes.

The old lady's face grew wonderfully softer as she watched. Finally she beamed outright.

"Well, I dare say the world isn't in such a bad way after all," she said, as she turned away.

CROATIANS RECEIVE THE BISHOP'S BANNER

National Society of the Race Gets Costly Emblem—Convention Opens Today.

Ceremonies incident to the blessing and presentation of a magnificent banner to the National Croation society were held yesterday in St. Nicholas church in East Ohio street, Allegheny. These ceremonies were attended by all the Croation societies in the county and the visiting delegates to the seventh annual convention of the society, which will open in the Masonic hall in Madison avenue, Allegheny, today.

The banner was made in Croatia, under the direction of Bishop Strossmeyer, at a cost of $1,200, and was presented by him some time ago to the supreme assembly of the society. It was carried through the principal streets of the two cities in a parade and then taken to the church, where, in the presence of over 2,500 people, it was blessed and then formally presented to the assembly.

The blessing was attended with all the pomp and ceremony which is part of the rite in the Croatian church. Priests, attired in religious vestments and the chanting of a ritualistic ceremonial, lent to the occasion a solemnity it would have otherwise been without. The flag was borne in, and amid the singing of the Latin service was sprinkled with holy water and given a sponsor. Bishop Strossmeyer, the "god-father," was represented by proxy, who was the Rev. Father Bush of St. Peter's cathedral of Allegheny, and he sent a cablegram to Peter Pavlinac, the president of the Croatian society, accepting the honor conferred upon him. The services were in charge of the Rev. Father Bosilko Bekovac, the pastor of the church.

At the end of the church ceremonial the attending Croatians marched down to the Masonic hall, and there the flag was presented to the society. In a short address the president of the society accepted the gift.

The legality of the convention, which begins today was brought into question a few days ago before Judge J. D. Shafer. The Croatian society has been for some time divided into two factions, one in Allegheny and one in New York. The New York faction, headed by Frank Zotti, has been for some time trying to gain control of the affairs of the society and the administration of its revenues, and as a last resort brought into question the legality of the proposed convention. The society was chartered under the laws of this state eight years ago, and upon this the home faction based its defense. Judge Shafer decided that the case had no standing in court, and it will be decided in convention by a popular vote.

The remainder of the enlarged plant will not be placed in operation for some time. The structural work of the new armor plate machine shop is only now going up, and the make-over of the old machine shop into the protected-deck department cannot be effected for some time yet.

NEW DOWNTOWN THEATER WILL BE MONUMENT

Henry M. Bennett's Wealth Will Be Used for a New Playhouse.

GROUND IS ALREADY UNDER OPTION

It Will Be Known as the Star and Will Have the Same Class of Attractions as Appear at the Bijou.

A new downtown theater for Pittsburgh will be the lasting monument to the wealth of the late Henry M. Bennett. This addition to the Smoky City's list of playhouses will be erected within a year by R. M. Gulick and P. J. McNulty, the residuary legatees of the Bennett estate, and has been made possible through the fruitless efforts of Laura Biggar to contest Bennett's will.

The new house will be called the "Star theater" and will offer the same line of attractions as those now given at the Bijou. The Bijou's sale of prices also will be maintained. Gulick and McNulty have options on two downtown properties and expect to close the deal within a few weeks. Work on building the auditorium will be begun immediately thereafter, and the Star will be ready to bid for patronage at the beginning of next year's theatrical season.

Miss Biggar's Loss.

Mr. McNulty returned from New York yesterday and stated that a plain case of conspiracy had been made out against Miss Biggar and Dr. Hendricks. Miss Biggar's original share in the estate, about $600,000, will revert to Gulick and McNulty, by reason of a clause in Bennett's will, which says that any one contesting the will shall forfeit such legacy given them. Since Miss Biggar's case has ended in fiasco the executors will divide the portion she would have received between the residuary legatees. Gulick and McNulty will devote the entire sum to the building of the new playhouse.

"Miss Biggar deserves sympathy," said Mr. Gulick. "The suggestion for her to contest the will doubtless came from Dr. Hendricks. A portion of her share would have been paid within a year and she would have been obliged to wait two years longer on the remainder. The only excuse that could be offered is that she was in too great haste to get the money. Our new theater will be erected within four or five blocks of the Bijou on ground optioned for the purpose some time since. We have two pieces of ground under consideration and will decide on the choice at an early date.

"The success of the Bijou determined our plans. On the road there are about 85 attractions of the sort we offer at the Bijou, and as our theatrical season in Pittsburgh lasts scarcely more than 40 weeks in each year, over two-score of good shows are unable to get into Pittsburgh.

"As this is considered the best theatrical town in the country for traveling companies it will be easily seen that a new theater could soon book a whole season's attractions, and the big audiences that every night pack the houses offering popular-priced shows is evidence that the Star will be no uncertain venture."

ST. ANDREW'S HAS NEW BUILDING AND NEW PASTOR

Double Ceremony of Dedication and Installation Held Yesterday.

THE EDIFICE IS ONE OF FINEST IN CITY

The Rev. W. P. Sachs Installed, Beautiful New Church Dedicated and Congregation Celebrated All With Praise Service.

A ceremony of double significance occurred at St. Andrew's Evangelical Lutheran church, corner of Center and Morewood avenues, yesterday. It was the dedication of the church and the formal installation of the Rev. W. P. Sachs, who succeeds the Rev. Dr. H. B. Hemmeter in the pastorate.

The dedicatory exercises were conducted in the morning, and following these, in the afternoon, with an impressive service, Mr. Sachs was charged with the duties laid down by his predecessor. In the evening a praise service was held, at which addresses were made in both English and German, to a crowd which taxed the capacity of the building.

The services, dedicating the edifice to its sacred purpose, were begun at 10:30 a. m., the sermon being preached by the Rev. A. W. Myer, of St. John's college, Winfield, Kan., who was the pastor of the church at its organization. The Rev. A. H. Holthausen, of Trinity Lutheran church, South Side, conducted the altar service.

Pastor Was Installed.

Altar service in the installation ceremonies was also conducted by the Rev. A. H. Holthausen, and he delivered the address containing the charge to the congregation. The charge to the pastor was delivered by the Rev. A. W. Myer, and the service closed with a benediction by the newly invested pastor.

During the afternoon service, an excellent musical program was presented, the St. Andrew's choir being assisted by that of the Trinity Lutheran church and by Rothleider string quartet, accompanied by several vocalists.

Services in the evening were conducted in both English and German. The Rev. W. Broecker, of the First German Trinity church, preached a sermon in German and the Rev. W. Dallmann, of New York, preached in English.

In 1891, the organization of St. Andrew's congregation was consummated. At that time the membership numbered about 35, and religious services were held in a room at the corner of Fifth avenue and Stevenson street.

Work Has Been Pushed.

The membership increased so rapidly that the building of a church became a necessity and this resulted about two years later in the construction of a suitable edifice, at the corner of Colwell and Stevenson streets. For some reason, this church building was never completed and after several years it was sold, the present site in the East End being selected as a better location and more adapted to the needs of the growing congregation. The present site was purchased in 1901, and from necessity the construction of the new building was pushed forward with vigor. One year ago yesterday the corner stone was laid, the entire congregation of over 300 taking part in the exercises.

St. Andrews, from an architectural point of view, is one of the handsomest of the city's sacred edifices, and its interior decorations are unusually fine. The ceiling is etched in a pattern of extreme beauty, and the altar has been done in the same artistic pattern, being given an effect in white and gold.

Interior Is Beautiful.

The color scheme was designed in beautiful simplicity and the result is an interior exquisite in effect.

Two memorial windows, known as the Kohne and Voskamp memorials, are beautiful specimens of art work in glass. The one is a replica of Hoffman's "Resurrection" and depicts very faithfully the subjects represented in the masterpiece. The other represents "Christ Blessing the Little Children," and is equally as fine in artistic execution.

The new church has a seating capacity of 1,000, and the congregation, being one of the strongest financially in the city, completed it at a cost of $80,000. This amount represents the expenditure for everything, including the furniture, with the exception of the altar, which was presented to the church by the Ladies' Aid society of the congregation.

THE CHARACTER OF JUDAS WAS THEME

The Rev. James M. Thoburn Outlined Its Great Gifts and Lost Possibilities.

The Rev. James M. Thoburn, pastor of Calvary Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, last night preached on the character of Judas, taking for his text, Acts 1:25, "That he might go to his own place," quoting the words that prescribed the eternal destiny of the false disciple. Mr. Thoburn said:

"Three short sentences tell us all we know of Judas. John said he was a thief. Jesus said, 'better for that man he had not been born,' and Luke wrote the words of the text,' that he might go to his own place.' Many wonder why Jesus chose Judas as one of His disciples. 'He was to be Jesus' failure.' He was chosen for what he might have been, rather than what he proved to be. Jesus must have known how he was going to turn out, but that knowledge did not deter Him from giving Judas an opportunity to make a man of himself. He was the Cain of the New Testament. We utter his name with a shudder because of his treachery.

"Renegades are always the worst of men. The polished sinner is one of the most despicable types of life. Judas threw away his opportunity. He was included in the prayers of Christ, and he had gifts that fitted him for the greatest usefulness, but he turned away from his privileges and betrayed his trust.

"He wanted to be a politician instead of a preacher. God let him have his own way, and he went to his own place. It is a terrible sin not to live up to one's light. Probably Judas went farther in his bargain than he had originally intended. There is great danger in low living. High morals are always vain when joined with low living."

Monthly Lov Feast.

The monthly love feast will be held this evening in Providence mission at No. 340 Third avenue. The services, in charge of the Rev. A. Lenkerd, will begin at 7:45.

G. A. R. Department Headquarters.

Special train leaves Pittsburgh Monday morning, October 6th, at 8:00 a. m., with day coaches and parlor cars through to Washington, D. C. Rate, $8.00 round trip.

ST. THOMAS CHURCH, DONATED BY C. M. SCHWAB, BEGUN YESTERDAY

St. Thomas Roman Catholic Church, Braddock, of Which the Cornerstone Was Laid Yesterday.

Fully 5,000 persons witnessed the laying of the cornerstone of the new St. Thomas Catholic church of Braddock yesterday afternoon.

The Rt. Rev. Leander Schneu, archabbot of St. Vincent's monastery at Beauty, Pa., blessed the stone and deposited in it the box containing the usual number of coins, history of the congregation and copies of the daily and church papers. The Very Rev. Father John Hickey, rector of the congregation, had as his guests nearly 50 of the leading priests of the diocese.

The erection of a new church for St. Thomas' congregation has been Father Hickey's ambition since he assumed charge of the congregation in March, 1882. Only a year ago, however, was his ambition gratified, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Schwab announced to the aged priest that they would build the church at a cost of $50,000. Later they increased the amount to $70,000, the gift being made to the congregation as a memorial to Rev. Father Hickey, who married Mr. and Mrs. Schwab. The church is to be of the Romanesque style of architecture and will be built of buff brick and stone. It will have a seating capacity for 1,000 people and completed will cost $70,000.

MODERN MARRIAGE CUSTOMS SCORED

REV. W. B. SLUTZ GIVES SOUND ADVICE.

Haste in Marriage, Distaste for Motherhood and Divorce Courts Discussed.

At the Lincoln Avenue Methodist Episcopal church yesterday, the Rev. W. B. Slutz gave an interesting talk on "Christ and the Marriage Relation." He deplored the tendency of the American nation to follow the example of the French, in that many of our most cultured and best educated women go to the marriage altar "determined never to become mothers," Rev. Slutz took as his text, "And they and wain shall be our flesh." Mark 10:8, and said in part:

"Paraphrased this scripture would read: 'The two shall be one.' The great teacher's meaning is clear. The mystical union of Christ and his church is illustrated by the union of kindred spirits. The oneness spoken of here is the recognition of unity with diversity. Marriage is the act, which unites people in wedlock; while matrimony is the state or relation into which they enter. Because man was created a living soul there must be unity of spirit before heaven will recognize a union of hands. All true marriages are based upon unity in character, faith, tastes, motives and aspirations.

"Paul is expounding this teaching of Jesus when he says, 'be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers.' He could also have said, want of harmony in any of the essential elements of home life brings sorrow and ruin to the family. The unregenerate and gordid widow that John Wesley married was a menace and a reproach to his work and ambition until he resolved to live apart from her. Mr. Wesley never sought a divorce but saw the necessity of his action.

"Young people make a tremendous blunder when they fail to consider these inoptitudes. Love should always be under control. Why should a young woman of cultured and refined tastes permit herself to yield her love to a man who is out of accord with her ideas of human life? Or why should the young man, who has been reared in a home of prayer and of the noblest restraints be willing to seek the hand of her in marriage, whose entire life is out of harmony with such ideals?

"You cannot recognize unity here. Such two people can never be one, though married often. Christ's teachings show conclusively that nothing but death can annul the marriage vow, except the crime of infidelity. How painfully revolting and nauseating are the details of the average divorce case? How the body of Christ often shamefully suffers in such proceedings.

"Let the betrothal have its full meaning in your heart and resemble that heaven heard and recorded the solemn vow. Christ glorified the marriage relation that the family, the foundation of human society, might be perpetuated. A well-known Englishman says America is becoming more 'Frenchy' every year in the size of their families.

"The increase in population in this country among the colored people and foreign-born inhabitants ought to cause serious reflection, when many of the most cultured and best educated young women of America go to the marriage altar determined never to be a mother."

City Pastor In Program.

The special prayer services at the First United Presbyterian church, Wilkinsburg, begin this evening and continue throughout the week. A number of well-known Pittsburgh pastors have received assignments on the program, as follows: Monday, September 29, the Rev. Dr. John McNaugher; Tuesday, the Rev. Dr. R. M. Russell; Wednesday, the Rev. J. A. Burnett, Wilkinsburg; Thursday, the Rev. Dr. J. K. McClurkin; Friday, the Rev. D. F. McGill; Saturday, October 4, the Rev. Albert Flick.

A gradual decline in flesh is a sure symptom that something is wrong inside. The best restorative is Dr. D. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE REV. NICHOLLS PLEAD FOR YOUNG

MORE AND BETTER PLAYGROUNDS A NECESSITY.

In His Sermon Yesterday He Told Why Street Boy Is Law Breaker.

The Rev. James S. Nicholls, pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian church, yesterday preached from the text, "And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof." In the course of the sermon he said:

"The prophet introduces playful childhood in the picture because he is aiming to give an idea of life in all its completeness. With him play was reckoned as a normal and essential part of life. With this the latest conclusions of biological science agree. In the mighty plan of unfolding and ever mounting life, play came in to perform a vital function.

"As Mr. Thompson puts it, 'throughout the ages those kittens which hunted best in fun have hunted best in earnest;' the non-players and the bad players have been eliminated. Play is, in its essence, a rehearsal without responsibilities, a sham fight before the real battle. This remark about the vital nature of play which the scientist asserts and the prophet assumes, is true for man.

"Let the public conscience become indifferent today to the crowded tenements that are found in the heart of our city, or built about such places as Arch street dump, the swarming children from which have no place to play but the gutter and the street, and the crop of thieves, rakes and general law breakers will increase apace.

"We must look after the play of the children on the streets by turning it into the channel of the kindergarten, and by giving it more room for exercise, by condemning unsanitary tenements and turning the ground upon which they stand into public parks and simple gymnasiums.

"Make room in the city for the children's play, so that the mere effort at a game does not make them violators of the law, and they will not grow up to think that laws are made simply to be broken, as the boy of the street is now likely to do."

FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN MASSES AND CLASSES

That Is Remedy Prescribed by the Rev. S. Edward Young for the Nation's Ills.

Preaching from St. Luke 5:29, "Levi made Him a great feast in his own house; and there was a great company of publicans and of others," Rev. S. Edward Young said at Second Presbyterian church Sunday evening:

"More whole-souled Christian sociability between all classes—only that can avert the disasters subsequent upon America's present conditions. How make the slum element content this coal-less winter? Oh, you have it—you will send them your old clothes! How Christianize the long-lapsed masses? Pittsburgh has had great preachers; but here would be a greater, the owner of a carriage whose horses instead of prancing around uselessly exercising will every day take some tired mother and her ragged children riding through the park.

"Do you know why the automobile is hated by the poorest classes? Because they can never have a spin in one. What would bring peace into the war against trusts so speedily as to return to the old-time mingling of head of the firm with the laborers?

"Those anthracite miners—I visited days in their homes a few weeks ago—conjure up all manner of devils in their picture of the distant owners when they never see, many of whom I personally know to be admirable gentlemen. Likewise do the owners imagine demoniacal traits in the miners, the vast majority of whom are hard-working, honest, patient men.

"A mighty sermon is the personal friendship that existed in this community between the late Senator Magee and the least regarded people. Socially speaking, Christ's intimacy with publicans and sinners was an irretrivable blunder; but it was the only way to save the world and is the only way now.

"God help us through sociableness to make it easier for the rankless newcomer at this vast population centre to start heavenward rather than hellward."

ST. PETER'S NEW ORGAN BALKED AT THE RECITAL

Congregation of Music Lovers Were Disappointed By Annoying Delays.

THE ENGINE FAILED AT TWO TRIALS

After Repairs Had Been Made the Service Proceeded and the Big Instrument Made Gray Walls Throb With Melody.

The first of a series of Sunday evening organ recitals was given last night in St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal church, on Forbes and Craft avenues, despite provoking accidents and consequent delays. Harry Lee Cornwall, the organist, had arranged a fine program and the pews were filled with an expectant throng of music-loving worshipers. The big three-manual organ had been modernized and rebuilt, since being brought from the old location of St. Peter's in Grant street.

A church organ, however, consists of more than keyboard and pipes. Down in the cellar is the intricate mechanism that supplies the wind. It was this invisible element of the music that went wrong last night.

The opening number was "Andante Grazioso," by Smart. When Mr. Cornwall touched the keys and the peals of the wonderful instrument swept through the high-arched auditorium, every person in the audience felt proud of the new organ. Its majestic tones could be heard far beyond the gray walls of the church. There was sublimity in every note.

Then the engine which drives the bellows in the cellar suddenly stopped. The sweet tones instantly changed to a series of snorts, and the giant pipe coughed in a way that wore visibly on the risibilities of the audience. Organist, janitors and mechanics hurried downstairs and repaired the damage. The recital was resumed and the music soon again ascended to sublime heights. The engine stopped a second time, again the snorting was heard, and the giant pipe renewed its coughing. Organist, janitors and mechanics returned to the cellar and again repaired the damage. The recital was resumed and concluded without further trouble.

The program will be repeated next Sunday evening by Mr. Cornwall. It includes "Chant Pastoral" and "In Paradisum," by Dubois; "Simple Confession," by Thoma, which was placed on the program by request, and the prelude to "Lohengrin."

The organ in St. Peter's was rebuilt at a cost of several thousand dollars, and is one of the finest instruments in the country. Last night's accident to the machinery was not unprecedented, but is not expected to occur at next week's trial, when J. C. Colgrove will sing the offertory, "An Invocation," by Somerset, during the organ recital.

"RALLY DAY" OBSERVED.

Children of Gladden United Presbyterian Church Had Exercises in Honor of Annual Event.

Yesterday was "rally day" at the Gladden United Presbyterian church, in St. Clair township. The exercises were given by the children at the morning services. They began at 10:30 a. m.

After opening exercises and Sunday school lessons by members of the Gladden United Presbyterian Sunday school the following program was rendered: Miss Blanche McCrory, address, "Rally Day;" "A Child's Appeal," Miss Anna Shaw; Miss Aime Adams, "Any Minute;" "If I Were You," Miss Ruth Hastings; William Brown, "A Boy's Warning;" Miss Lizzie Hillman of Wilmerding, vocal solo. The pastor, the Rev. D. Cleland, sermon on "God's Best Fisherman."

"Rally Day" is an annual feature at the Gladden United Presbyterian church and is always one of the leading church affairs among the young folks.

A few days ago we purchased the interest of a retiring member of the firm on terms extremely favorable. The deal involved considerable outlay of ready cash on our part.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 28.—Umpire Frank O'Day got a bad scare directly after the Reds had taken a farewell wallop out of the Pittsburgh Pirates today. He brought it all upon himself.

Of course, unfortunate Mike Donlin had to be the victim, and should anything come out of the affair Donlin will no doubt be very unjustly criticised by those who did not see the occurrence. It can be truthfully said, however, that had it been any other member of the team the same action would have been taken.

It happened in the seventh inning with the score standing 3 to 2 in the Reds' favor. Donlin, the first man up, hit a slow one down to second. He beat the ball out by two feet, but O'Day calmly called him out.

Donlin Lost His Temper.

It was enough to make a saint lose his temper and under the circumstances there was not a man that blamed Donlin for firing several scathing remarks at him. In fact every rooter in the row took a very vivid roast at him and at the conclusion of the game came very near doing bodily harm to him. It is fortunate that this did not happen.

The crowd that numbered not less than a thousand people, gathered around him and when he came within about 20 yards of the club's office he decided things were getting entirely too hot for him and he made a run for it. Seat cushions and everything available was hurled at him, but they missed their mark.

A squad of policemen then surrounded the place and tried to disperse the crowd. They would not go, however, and waited for him to come out. He finally did come and another demonstration took place and it was under the protection of four stalwart policemen that he was allowed to get out of the grounds and to safety.

Row Was Deplorable.

It was a very deplorable happening, but under the circumstances and considering how things turned out every one but O'Day was thoroughly justified in what they did and his action had an intimation that he was only trying to help his home team (Chicago) along a little bit for that coveted fourth place.

The game, even outside of this episode, was as exciting and interesting a one as has been seen at the park this season. It was the wind-up of the season, and while the weather was not of the best, yet 8,000 people attended.

Noodles Hahn and Donlin were the stars of the day. Hahn was on his mettle and the Pirate batsmen could do nothing with his delivery. Four out of the six hits that were made off him counted for naught, while Hans Wagner was responsible for the champions escaping without a coat of whitewash.

Philippe Hit Hard.

Monsieur Phillippe was on the slab for the Pittsburg team and the Reds landed on him almost at will, but exceedingly rank umpiring and a little stupid base running kept them from scoring at least two more runs than they did.

Both sides played equally well and it was only the hitting qualities that could win the game. The Reds surpassed in this and therefore did all in their power to keep the Pirates from reaching the coveted 103-mark and from letting themselves fall back into the last division.

It all happened like this. The Reds started off like a house afire. It was enough to give the Deacon heart trouble. With one man out Jake Beckley singled, Crawford also singled and Cy Seymour, Johnny on the spot, doubled to right.

Sebring's Fine Work.

It looked good for a home run, but that new man, Sebring, got his glove on it and Crawford, who was loafing around the bases, was nailed at the plate by a quick relay through Wagner. Corcoran went out at first.

In the second with one out Morrissey singled. Peitz singled and Morrissey went to third. Morrissey came home on a wild throw. Noodles Hahn fanned the air, but Mike Donlin singled, Mike stole second and on the throw to second which was purposely short, Heinle walked across the plate. Beckley flied out, however, and then the run-making closed down for Reddens.

It was not until the sixth, however, that Hahn allowed the Pirates to cross the plate. With one man gone Burke singled and Hans Wagner sent one to right field for a homer. This was all with the exception of the sensational seventh and the wind-up of the game. The score:

ST. LOUIS TWICE BEATEN.

Chicago Team Celebrated Closing of the Season by Two Fine Victories.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The National league season here ended today, the locals taking two games from St. Louis. Taylor's pitching and Tinker's fielding were the features of the first game. In seven of the nine innings the visitors were retired in one, two, three order, and but for Slagle's muff would have been shut out.

Williams outpitched Wicker in the second contest, which was rather featureless, and was called on account of darkness after the visitors had been retired in the seventh. Attendance, 6,800. Scores:

CHAMPIONS' BATTING BEE.

They Drove Rube Vickers, Kelley's New Find, to the Timbers on Saturday.

The champions held a little baseball matinee over at Exposition park Saturday afternoon, having for their opponents the Cincinnati Reds. The game was a close one until the fifth inning when the Pirates batted in enough runs to win the contest. The final score was 13 to 6, and the champions thus made one more step toward their almost certain break of all previous baseball records.

Algy Chesbro was on the rubber for Pittsburgh, while Manager Joe Kelley, of the Reds, tried to spring a phenom, by the name of Rube Vickers, on the local team. The wonder did fairly well until the fifth, when he exploded and the Pirates made five runs and added insult to injury by making seven more the next inning. The score:

W. & J. LINE TOO LIGHT

Harvard System of Play May Not Be Successful With Washington County Collegians.

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 28.—(Special.)—The result of the game yesterday between the Washington and Jefferson eleven and the California Normal team, while it demonstrated the superiority of the local players over their opponents, was not as satisfactory to the coach and the followers of the team as it might have been.

W. & J. was weak in handling the ball at stages, and it is the general opinion that a decided brace will have to be taken before the hard games of the season are played.

W. & J.'s line is not as heavy as it should be to play the Harvard style of football and a strenuous effort will be made this week to strengthen this department of the team.

The end positions are very weak and even Sutter, who has been considered one of the best end players that ever appeared on a local team, did not display anything like his old time form in yesterday's game.

Two men were tried at the other end in the game, but neither is up to the standard of previous years, and W. & J. wants to have a clean record she will have to display much better football.

One fault of the back field yesterday was the tendency on the part of the backs to hit the line sideways instead of headon, as directed by the coaches. Prowitt, especially, was guilty of this practice, and a new man may be tried at fullback the coming week.

The local team is also weak at quarterback.

McDonough is fast, but does not display sufficient headwork, while Tinker passes the ball in very ragged fashion. Sweet, the new center man played a good game yesterday, but does not watch his man close enough.

Coach Greene will give the men the hardest kind of work this week, as the game with the Marietta college eleven on next Saturday promises to be a hard one.

The Thanksgiving date has not been closed up and which eleven will meet Washington and Jefferson is not known yet.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

JAMES WILLIAMS HOME.

He May Take Lajoie's Place on All-American Team—Leach Said to Have Signed.

James Williams, the third baseman of the Baltimore American league team, arrived home yesterday morning from Baltimore, where his team finished the season with Boston by playing a doubleheader on Saturday. Williams is not feeling at all well and did not venture from his Allegheny home yesterday.

Williams will remain in the city for several days. There is a possibility that he may be found on the All-American league team this year. Napoleon Lajoie is as yet undecided as to whether he will accompany the team on its western tour and if the big Frenchman does not go Williams will take his place.

There was a rumor afloat among baseball enthusiasts last night that an effort was being made to have Williams back in Pittsburgh next season, but that is absurd in the extreme. The third baseman appears to be perfectly satisfied with his berth in the American and is not likely to jump back into the National to play next season.

Some time ago the same rumor became current that the Pittsburgh club was after Williams, but it was denied by both the player and the Pirate management. It was stated on good authority yesterday that Tommy Leach had signed a contract for next season. If this report is correct the champions will have the best player for third cushion in the business and will not need Williams' services.

With Leach at third and Bobby Wallace at short the champions would be seen a little stronger in the infield next season than this. If Leach has signed Conroy and Harry Smith may have also attached their signatures to Pittsburgh contracts.

CLOSING OF THE SEASON.

Pittsburgh vs. Cincinnati Here Next Saturday Will Finish the Schedule.

With a game with Cincinnati at Exposition park on Saturday afternoon the Pittsburgh team will close the season. The champions will return to the city this morning and will rest during the day. Tomorrow they go to Charleroi for an exhibition game and another similar contest will be played with the team at Rochester, Pa., on Wednesday.

The Cincinnati series opens on Thursday and continues until Saturday. President Dreyfuss stated last night that he expected Clarke, Bransfield and Leach would be back in the game by next Thursday, and he expects the champions to take at least two out of the three remaining games.

Great preparations are being made for the exhibition game at Charleroi. Excursions will be run from nearly all the towns in the Monongahela valley. Luther Bolig of Monessen may pitch against the champions instead of Charles Perkins, late of the Newark club.

The Pirates will hold their big field day at Exposition park next Monday. The All-American team will possibly be here later in the week, when a series of games will be played. Cy Young is scheduled to pitch one of the games for the Americans here, and no doubt the contests will be attended by large crowds.

ALLEN WILL TRAIN FOR J. R. KEENE

FAMOUS ENGLISH STABLE TO BE STRENGTHENED.

Whitney Seems Assured Jockey Burns Will Be Licensed Again.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Trainer Matt Allen announced yesterday that he has made arrangements to go to England to train for James R. Keene next season. Allen has been negotiating with Mr. Keene for several days and reached a verbal understanding yesterday whereby he will probably sign a formal contract tomorrow.

Mr. Keene's horses in England, including the noted Conroy, winner of last year's Brooklyn handicap, and Cup and Bells, have been in the care of Felix Lynch who will be succeeded by Allen. By virtue of his phenomenal success in training Gold Heels and Major Daingerfield, the property of F. C. McLewee and James Brady this season, Allen has reached the front rank in his profession and when McLewee and Brady decided several days ago to sell their stable, Allen was immediately in demand.

Mr. Keene, realizing that this was a golden opportunity to secure a man who would be of great assistance to him on the English turf, lost no time in making Allen a fine offer, which the trainer could not very well refuse.

With the engagement of Allen arises the belief that Mr. Keene will soon strengthen his English stable by the shipment of yearlings, the produce of his famous Castleton stud, to the other side.

W. C. Whitney has re-engaged Tommy Burns to ride his horses next season. A letter signed with Mr. Whitney's name was received by Burns yesterday. In it the multi-millionaire said he would take advantage of the option in the contract of last year, which gave him the privilege to renew it for another season at the old terms.

Burns recently had his license revoked by the Jockey club stewards. At the time he was suspended the stewards announced that his punishment was due to misbehavior at the post. John Sullman, August Belmont's jockey, was suspended at the same time Burns was.

Under the terms of the contract Burns will receive $12,000 a year as a retaining fee, $25 for all winning mounts and $10 for losing ones. He is under orders from Mr. Whitney from January 13, 1903, to January 12, 1904. He is expected to ride at less than 110 pounds.

His engagement would seem to indicate that Mr. Whitney believes that Burns will receive a license next year. Men who are in close touch with him say that he must have received some assurance to that effect or else he would not sign Burns.

Should the stewards refuse Burns a license, however, the contracts would be null and void because under the racing laws any jockey not in first-class standing on the turf cannot become a party to an engagement for his services.

WOMEN GOLFERS.

They Are Preparing for National Championship to Be Held This Week.

BROOKLINE, MASS., Sept. 28.—Some three score women golfers were on the Country club golf course today practicing in anticipation of the national championships which begin on Tuesday and continue through the week.

The day was perfect for golf and players found the course in admirable shape. The green was fast and the putting greens could not have been in better condition. Many played for the first time over the course.

Mrs. E. A. Manice, who represents the Lenox Country club and of whom much is expected by eastern golfers, made her first appearance. She is considered an important factor in the championships.

Weekly Review of Market Quotations

PITTSAURGH PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Peaches Reached Lowest Point on Saturday—Navy Beans Are Higher.

Summary for Last Week.

Hay quotations have remained fixed during the past week at prices ruling at the opening with receipts moderate. In fact, the market exhibiting slightly more firmness during the closing days than earlier. Straw is unchanged, with steady receipts but no large accumulations. Few transactions have been made in wheat, but the market value is higher, and local quotations have been advanced. Rye is holding at the same quotations as one week ago, and the situation is one of steadiness, dealers not looking for much if any lowering of prices. Corn is unchanged; new corn has not yet commenced to run, and receipts are light. Should there be any considerable increase in demand, corn prices would go higher, as conditions now show an equality in supply and demand, which it would not take a greatly increased activity to overthrow and make the grain scarce. Oats are coming in freely, and quotations for No. 2 white and extra 3s have declined. Milfeed is unchanged.

Fluctuations in Flour Prices.

In groceries there has been some fluctuating in flour prices, owing to the uncertain wheat market. Flour was advanced early in the week by millers, but since then conditions have weakened sufficiently to bring flour quotations down below prices ruling at the beginning of last week, as stated previously, there is abundance of wheat in the country, and flour prices are not likely to go any higher than at present, unless for short periods of possible fluctuation, while it would not surprise dealers to see prices go off slightly after the beginning of next month. Sugar is unchanged, with demand normal and prices steady. Cereal foods continue firm, but quotations are the same as they were a week ago. Coffee has shown some signs of increased firmness, and during the early part of the week looked as though there might be higher prices, but these have not yet arrived. Beans are higher, navies having advanced 10 cents a bushel, although some jobbers have not yet changed their selling price. Dried peas are commanding higher figures. New mackerel experienced a sharp advance early in the week, and is steady at the advance.

There has been no change in canned fruits or vegetables. Domestic sardines are a trifle higher.

New Raisins Now Arriving.

In dried fruits the change is in raisins, which are firmer and higher, first shipments of new crop have commenced to arrive, and these are much higher in price than old stock. Apples are lower than they were, owing to larger receipts, the market having been easier for several days. Prices for all grades of apples throughout the country and dealers are expecting to see prices go off still more after the first rush of buyers is over. At present many jobbers are seeking to cover future wants and farmers are holding stock for highest possible figures. Potatoes showed some weakness at the close of the week, but quotations have not yet been changed. Home-grown vegetables have commenced to advance, the waning season being apparent in the reduced quantities of offerings, and the stimulated prices are a natural consequence. Tomatoes, green corn, cucumbers and egg plant have especially felt the influence of stronger conditions, and quotations are higher. Peaches were off in quality and weakest on Saturday, offering at lower prices than at any other time this season. They have been arriving in large quantities all week, and prices have been declining, reaching the lowest point on Saturday. Lighter receipts are looked for now for several days, owing to the fact that several cars were sold on Saturday, but loading cars for shipment. Grapes are coming in more freely, but are holding their own in price, although there was a temporary weakness on Saturday, when several cars were pushed out. Winter vegetables are coming to the front, and are offering freely. Tropical fruits show little change.

Butter advanced 1c during the past week, and since then has been steady, but without special feature. Eggs are higher, demand being greater. Cheese is firmer, with prices unchanged.

The only change made in poultry was a slight advance in the price of live chickens, on account of an increase in demand. Other prices all ruling steady.

Lard has advanced three-quarters of a cent a pound. Medium and small sized hams are a quarter of a cent higher, and dry salt and smoked meats have advanced a half cent.

BROKE THE RECORD.

Pittsburgh Bank Exchanges for the Week Were Nearly $5,000,000 Larger Than Last Year.

Pittsburgh bank exchanges for the week ending yesterday broke all previous records for any similar week in the history of Pittsburgh by almost $5,000,000, being that much larger than the same week last year, which held the record to that time. Compared with the preceding week there was also an increase of about $4,350,000. The total for the year to date also eclipsed all previous records, showing an increase over the same period last year of over $50,000. The figures for yesterday were $1,304,000 larger than a year ago and about $28,000 greater than for the preceding Saturday. The local money market ruled very close throughout the week and at the finish was firmer than it has been in a year or more, the rate for call and time loans standing at 6 per cent straight.

SALES SMALLER AND PRICES IRREGULAR

The volume of business transacted upon the Pittsburgh stock exchange during the week ended yesterday was somewhat below that of ch epreceding week and 10,000 shares less than a year ago. The decrease was due to the money situation at home and in the east, which made large speculation unprofitable. The tone of the local market was decidedly irregular as a whole and considerable reactions in prices were the rule. At the closing session the situation showed improvement and a more confident feeling prevailed. The total public sales for the week were 35,291 shares of stock and $18,000 bonds for the preceding week, and with 45,214¾ shares of stock and $12,000 bonds for the same week last year.

The following statement is a complete summary of the publicly recorded transactions upon the Pittsburgh stock exchange during the week beginning Monday, September 22, and ending with Saturday, September 27, 1902. It shows total sales, the opening, highest, lowest and closing prices, and the changes in the selling prices compared with those of the preceding week and the nearest ones to that time:

PENSION ROLL STILL BENEATH MILLION MARK

Nevertheless There Has Been a Net Increase of 5,732 Names Since 1898.

NEARLY THREE BILLIONS PAID SINCE 1775

In Year Covered by Ware's Report 50,128 Veterans Died, But Only 27,043 Were Pensioners. Estimated This Year 40,000.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—The annual report of the commissioner of pensions, Eugene F. Ware, made public today, shows that the number of names on the pension rolls still is under the million mark, despite a net gain of 5,732 pensioners since 1898. The total enrollment July 1 last was 999,446, against 997,735 last year. The total comprises 738,809 soldiers and 260,637 widows and dependents. The aggregate includes 4,695 pensioners outside the United States.

The number of death notices of old soldiers, not now in service, received by the bureau during the year, was 50,128, but only 27,043 of them were pensioners. The report says that the death rate among the pensioners for the coming year will be about 40,000, and the losses to the rolls from other causes will be about 6,000.

The total amount paid for pensions during the fiscal year was $137,504,268, and the yearly cost of operating and maintaining the bureau and the agencies, outside of the payment of pensions proper, aggregates $3,590,529.

The pension system, says the report, since the beginning of the government, has cost $2,502,500,019, exclusive of the estimate of the soldiers' homes. The pension disbursements by the United States from July 1, 1776, to June 30, 1865, were $96,445,444.

The following amounts have been paid to soldiers, their widows, minor children, and dependent relatives on account of military and naval service during the wars in which the United States has been engaged:

Revolutionary war (estimated)	$ 70,000,000
War of 1812 (account of service without regard to disability)	45,035,207
Indian wars, 1832-1842 (on account of service without regard to disability)	5,814,207
War with Mexico (on account of service without regard to disability)	31,861,358
War of the rebellion	2,744,874,276
War with Spain	2,276,184
Actual total disbursement in pensions	2,900,354,302

The amounts paid as pensions on account of disabilities and deaths as results of military and naval service during the wars of 1812 and with Mexico and in time of peace, to the beginning of the war with Spain, are included in the payments on account of the war of the rebellion.

The average value of each pension is now a little over $132.

News of the Rivers.

Parker Wise, a son of Capt. R. W. Wise of the Memphis Packet Company, has left for Denver, Col. He is going to the University of Denver to take a course in the study of law.

The Island Queen, the biggest pleasure craft on western waters, is receiving a complete overhauling. Two new nigger engines are being put in by Engineer Samuel Ellis. Capt. James Dunlap is superintending repairs.

The steamers Henry M. Stanley and City of Wheeling are running with but half wheels, that is, the buckets have been taken off one side. It is claimed that it lightens up the stern. This is the first time it has been done at Cincinnati.

The first sidewheel packet built for the Louisville, Evansville and Henderson trade was the Fawn, for Capt. Ayers. The late Capt. T. S. Nachal built her on the point, and Capt. Ayers not being able to complete her, Capt. William Hollcraft took charge, finished her and commanded her. The late George W. Wicke was clerk on her. The Fawn was a fast and popular boat.

For many years before the war tall black walnut or locust posts were planted along the Strader' wharf at Louisville to which steamboats would tie their lines. Sometimes as many as five or six steamboats would tie to these posts. The stumps of some of the posts can still be seen on the wharf.

AUTUMN'S TOUCH IS FELT IN PARKS

BAD WEATHER CUT DOWN THE ATTENDANCE.

Highland Zoo Animals in Winter Quarters—Chrysanthemum Show Promises Well.

The attendance at the two city parks yesterday was not as large as on the previous Sunday, although several excursions came into Pittsburgh. The day was dark and gloomy, leaden clouds covering the sky and threatening rain, and this deterred many people from visiting the parks. The fall flowers are now in rich perfusion, but here and there throughout the parks the grass is getting russet brown in spots, and the trees and shrubbery are rapidly shedding their leaves.

All the winter quarters for the animals at the zoo have been completed and by next Sunday all the animals will be in them. The two beautiful antelopes which have been housed on the hill since they were received at the zoo are now quartered in what is called the hippopotamus house. New pens were built for them between the quarters of the pelicans and the California sea lion. During the past week the Carricapras antelope presented the zoo with a young daughter. The baby is getting along finely and will be a nice addition to the zoo. Two baby elks came to the zoo a short time ago. They were born on September 17 and 19. With these additions the herd of elks now numbers 27, five youngsters being born during the year. The zebus and gnu are quartered in the elephant house, and the Wallaby kangaroos have been changed to the monkey house, in the east wing of the building.

The work on the bear pits has not yet been started, and it is not expected that it will be started before spring. Other improvements in the park are progressing rapidly, but they will hardly be completed before next year. During the week some person whose name is not known to Superintendent Ernest Tretow presented the zoo with a large gray fox. It is a fine specimen.

There was a fair attendance at Schenley park. During the afternoon, many people took in the museum and the conservatory. The coming chrysanthemum show promises to be one of the finest of recent years. There is every indication of a profusion of bloom, as the plants are in excellent condition and full of buds. The show opens October 26.

NEW MARCH DREW CROWD

"The Pittsburgh Gazette" Rendered in Masterly Style by Roccereto at Kennywood.

News that Roccereto's Concert band would play "The Pittsburgh Gazette" march was the magnet that attracted an unusually large crowd for such a day as yesterday to Kennywood park. It was the first time Carl Bruno's popular composition was programed at any of the parks and was put on by special request of many people who heard Sousa's band play it at the exposition.

That Mr. Roccereto's organization, which is considered one of the best in the state, did not suffer by comparison with the great Sousa band was attested by the masterly manner in which the musicians interpreted the work. Tumultuous applause showed that the march has the seal of popular approval. After the rendition of the number the band was encored and Director Roccereto congratulated.

There were fair crowds at the other parks. In all probability next Sunday will wind up the summer concert season, which, despite bad weather most of the time, broke all former attendance records. The Second Brigade band was the attraction at Calhoun park and the crowd there enjoyed Director Dannhardt's popular program. Down at Oakwood the Grand Army band held forth and played lively music to warm up the crowd. Out at Southern Guenther's Greater Pittsburgh band drew a good crowd for such a day and the people were satisfied with the music. They vigorously applauded a collection of gems of Stephen C. Foster.

The discomforts of Influenza, the danger from Grip, and kindred disorders, can be modified and cured—perhaps altogether prevented—by a prompt resort to Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant.

October 6th and 7th. On those dates excursion tickets to Chicago will be on sale account the national encampment of the Union Veteran Legion. The public generally may take advantage of the low fares, and may purchase tickets at offices of the Pennsylvania lines.

An Elaborate, but Informal, Opening of Autumn Fashions.

Seventy Departments Contributing.

The Preface.

With October knocking at our doors, the time has arrived for inviting our public, in the cheeriest manner possible, to a general view of our great collection of Autumn fashions. To do this without a single thought about quoting prices. To do it in a dignified way—in a way that each one of the many thousands who come here will accept.

Of late years old time openings have been thrust aside as too conservative for modern times—as something the people had grown tired of.

We disbelieve the oblique hint and therefore take great pleasure in reviving the custom.

The Opening Days, To-Morrow, Wednesday, Thursday.

On these days everybody is invited to come to this store and take part in commenting upon the grandest Autumn Opening that was ever witnessed in any similar season.

Our buyers spent the entire Summer preparing for this. Fifteen of them traversed England and the continent in search of such goods as they, in their long experience, knew would meet the views of Pittsburgers. Such a collection has never been shown in the greater city.

And the fine products of our own America have an equal representation.

There will be on view

The Richest of Furs,

The Handsomest of Millinery,

The Most Elegant of Costumes,

The Most Elaborate of Wraps,

The Most Beautiful of Silks,

The Most Pleasing Dress Goods,

Exquisite Laces of All Grades,

Rare Rugs from the Orient,

The Loveliest of Lace Curtains,

Bric-a-Brac from All Nations, and thousands of other interesting things scarcely necessary to tax you with reading about.

It is to be a half week devoted to sight-seeing and we can conceive of nothing more pleasant than looking, for a time, over new fashions.

The Freedom of the Store.

Every one will be expected to take their own way of fashion-seeing. Start on any floor that suits you best. Every department will be in readiness. If there is anything you see, and do not fully understand, call some of our people and ply them with questions. They will be only too glad to give you all information.

Come, if you please, prepared to spend the day. The exhibit is really worth it.

CAMPBELL'S

THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

housekeepers, homekeepers,

hotel men---attention!

here opens a special two days' sale on monday and tuesday of blankets-bedding-linens.

Several large lots picked up considerably under price and rapidly accumulating the past month will be offered on Monday and Tuesday at prices that will sell them quick and without any further argument in their favor—a sale based on sound and logical business principles.

The normal demand for Blankets begins with the fading days along in October. There is no need to force the market then.

A store like this that is big enough and strong enough to sell them NOW can get concessions from the manufacturers worth talking about. Possible only to biggest stores, but in them the savings are both large and real.

We make the savings by anticipating the demand.

You make your savings by anticipating your wants.

No housekeeper with a scrap of business wisdom will fail to provide now at these figures for their needs in the coming winter. To wait until the need comes is to pay in many instances a full third more than our prices during these two days.
